French Deliver Coal Ultimatum

Order Germans To Make Required Deliveries or Suffer Penalties.

[By The Associated Press]

Dusseldorf, Jan 16—Ruhr valley coal operators had before them today the French ultimatum that if deliveries were not resumed this morning the military authorities would take such measures as were deemed necessary "

"The attitude of the German magnates, however, seemed to be epitomized in a remark made by Herr Thomas, representative of the Stinnes interests at Gelsenkirchen. He said

"We are perfectly willing to go to jail but under no conditions shall we resume deliveries"

So far as was indicated in advices reaching this city this morning not a chunk of reparations coal or coke was being sent to France or Belgium by any of the Ruhr mines

ISSUE ORDERS

At the conference here yesterday between the French authorities and the operators, General Simon said to the German

"We have not summoned you here for a discussion but to transmit to you the orders of our government If you do not see fit to obey them you will be prosecuted before a court martial condemned and imprisoned "

WILL CHOOSE JAIL

The industrial leaders filed out of the room without uttering a word, but once outside the conference hall they made no secret of their determination to go to jail rather than submit

The ultimatum delivered to the industrial leaders yesterday directing them to resume coal deliveries under heavy penalties for failure expires at 4 p m No action will be taken by the French it is stated, until the full 24 hours from the delivery of the ultimatum, four o'clock yesterday afternoon has elapsed

ITALY OFFERS TO MEDIATE TROUBLE OVER REPARATIONS

[By The Associated Press]

Washington, Jan 17—To the utmost limit consistent with the preservation of its relations with France and also with Great Britain, the Italian government has been exerting itself within the past few days to restrain French officials from proceeding with extreme measures of coercion against Germany

DELICATE POSITION.

A clear exposition of Italy's delicate and difficult position in connection with the problem of the Ruhr invasion has been made known to Italy's Allies and undoubtedly, while not sufficient to cause any sensible change in the French plans, the views of the Rome government have received serious consideration

A disclosure of the Italian position is likely soon to be made to official Washington, and meanwhile some of its features have been learned from inquiry informed quarters

Baden is within the American zone but is occupied by French troops under command of Maj-Gen Allen

"PERSONAL PLAN."

Washington, Jan. 17—The suggestion placed before the reparations commission by Roland W Boyden and which apparently has been regarded abroad as a proposal of the American government for settlement of the reparations problem, was said by Secretary Hughes Tuesday night to be nothing more than "a purely personal" memorandum prepared by Mr Boyden at the request of commission members and in no sense embodying "a plan for settlement of reparations"

HOODED GUARDS

Gray testified that he was seated on the porch of a home near a roadway when he saw an automobile truck with two men apparently held prisoner by a black-hooded figure pass on the evening Daniel and Richard were kidnaped He said that on that night he went to the home of William Higginbotham a Morehouse planter, to act as a guard because of threatening letters Higginbotham had received.

Life of Rum Brigand Not All One of Ease

BY JUNE HADDAWAY

Copyright, 1923

New York, Jan. 17.—Life aboard a rum ship is not all beer and skittles, nor is the career of a rum-running brigand altogether a bed of jack roses

An officer of the fleet which has been keeping Highlands, N. J, and incidentally, the prohibition enforcement units, in a state of pleasureable excitement for the last week, admitted this today This officer, who earnestly desired that his name be withheld, took the opportunity of coming ashore in one of the high-powered rum-running motor boats and is making the best of a very limited shore leave

FIRST SHORE LEAVE

He cleared up some of the mystery surrounding the operations of the wholesalers who bring the "stuff"—for that is the name it is best known by—to points off the shore where the residents can get it to sell He has been off New York City on several occasions in the last six month, but this was the first time he had been able to come ashore

"Topping" is his way of describing the profession of rum-running.

QUICK THINKING.

"But you have to keep your skypiece busy" he continued, "because if you get just a few yards inside of the legal limit and the revenue boats can [illegible] it is all off That and being seasick through tossing on the waves off Sandyhook, is the chief of your troubles

FURNISHES THRILLS

Aside from the money, I think the reason a lot of chaps go in for rum-running to the American coast is because it gives them a thrill just a bit like the war. You know, the war made people a trifle wild and ready for excitement and all that sort of thing. Ordinarily I don't suppose I'd have gotten into it myself, even for the cash. I know my folks would jolly well fade away if they knew what I was doing I'm supposed to be on a sugar plantation in Cuba.

PAY IS GOOD

"Then the pay too, is good, far better than most crews receive, and on our own vessel, after a particularly good trip the owners or the old man usually slip us a bit of a bonus That's good policy, of course, the idea being to have a contented, and consequently, loyal crew

LITTLE TIME OFF.

"No sooner are we rid of one cargo than we rush back for another, sometimes to Canada, sometimes to Cuba, sometimes to other points It usually takes from ten days to a fortnight to unload And there seldom is shore leave on this end and that is what makes the rum mad Newspapers tobacco and all that are fine but New York is a place to visit and it goes hard when one cannot do that"

ASPHALT, CONCRETE INTERESTS AT WAR

Controversy Imminent at Hard Road Meeting.

Chicago, Jan 17.—A controversy between asphalt and concrete interests appeared imminent today in the second day's session of the thirteenth Good Roads Congress here due to the announcement of Colonel R Keith Compton, chairman of the paving commission of Baltimore, that he would bring before the organization charges made against the Portland Cement association by the asphalt association.

The charges were said to be relative to an alleged attempt to obtain increased railway tariffs on asphalt by the Portland Cement association.

DENIES KNOWLEDGE

William Kinney, official of the cement association, denied knowledge of the accusations but stated the charges would be answered if the association regarded them seriously.

Development of local material for use in concrete roads makes cheaper highways possible, lessens burdens on railways and reduces bond costs, H L Kuelling, construction engineer for the Wisconsin highway commission, said in an address prepared for delivery today before the congress

COLES CO. TO HAVE COURT FOUR MONTHS

Charleston, Jan 17—Judge Ben F. Anderson says the February term of the Charleston city court will not carry the regular term grand jury at this session, owing to the closeness of the April circuit court grand jury It is pointed out that there is no one awaiting a grand jury hearing the city court, as all criminal cases had been bound over to the April grand jury

The first four months of 1923 will see much court activity following the January circuit court, the February terms of county and the Charleston city court, the March terms of the Mattoon city court, and the April circuit court

U. OF I. TO ASK FOR $10,500,000

Appropriation Asked Practically Same as 1921.

Springfield, Ill, Jan 17.—An appropriation of $10 500,000 virtually the same amount sought in 1921, will be asked of the general assembly this year by the University of Illinois Gov. Small in his veto message of 1921 slashed $1,740,000 off the university appropriation.

OPPOSE CUT

Vigilantes of the house and senate have ears for the insistent demand for retrenchment in taxation, but they are prepared to protest against a farcical display of economy in trimming university appropriations while state pay rollers in the good graces of Gov. Small remain immune from the veto pruning hook. If there is to be economy, they declare, it should not be at the expense of the state's educational system.

HARDING CANCELS DUTIES--STILL ILL

Washington, Jan. 17.—President Harding cancelled all of his engagements today in order to remain in bed on account of an attack of grip It was said at the White House that the day of rest was decided on merely as a precautionary measure and that the president's condition showed no serious developments.

SAWYER NOT WORRIED.

Brigadier-General Sawyer, the White House physician, described the president's condition as a "slight attack of grip, such as about everyone else is having around town"

The president has a little fever intermittently, such as one would "naturally have with the grip," Dr Sawyer said. He added that if Mr. Harding had followed his own inclinations he would have spent today at his desk

Harrison Quiet After War on Sabotage

Governor Has Troops Ready To Guard Arkansas Town But Withholds Action.

Fort Smith, Ark., Jan. 17.—A special dispatch from The Times-Record staff correspondent at Harrison, Ark., declares that twenty strikers were severely whipped by the citizens at Leslie last night.

Harrison, Ark Jan 17—Following two days of intense excitement the result of "armed action" by citizens gathered here from a radius of 100 miles, in which one man was lynched, another wounded, during a "round-up" of alleged strikers, and more than 200 persons were forced to leave the community by a "committee of 1,000," Harrison today took on a normal atmosphere Further trouble was not expected to follow the "clean-up" of persons believed to be guilty of, or had knowledge of the bridge burnings and other depredations along the line of the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad

WHOLESALE DESTRUCTION

The situation at Harrison is the result of burning of bridges, destruction of machinery and other depredations along the Missouri and North Arkansas railway Some of the crimes date back to nearly two years ago, when the strike on the road began. Three bridges burned last week brought matters to a point where officials of the road virtually decided on the abandonment of the road.

The threatened abandonment is believed to have aroused the citizens along the road and yesterday they began to arrive at Harrison armed, with the evident determination of bringing to an end the depredations along the road

SUSPENDS ACTION.

Governor McRae who had been appealed to for troops, hurriedly sent a joint message to the legislature asking for authority to dispatch troops to the affected district and if necessary, declare martial law Both houses of the general assembly immediately authorized the executive to act and troops were ordered to entrain Later advices from the Boone county officials stating the situation had improved however, caused the governor to suspend indefinitely the order for military action

The "citizens court"—twelve men appointed by the "committee of 1,000" to continue the investigation of the M. and N A property—was said to have requested the resignation of the mayor, town marshal and a number of aldermen and to have discussed a special election to choose their successors

"Evidence Proves Herrin Miners Guilty,"—Duty

Claims No Doubt Exists—Defends Armed Defense of Mine Property.

[By The Associated Press]

Marion, Ill, Jan 17.—Delos Duty, state's attorney for Williamson county, in his opening argument in the Herrin riots trial today, declared that all of the five defendants had been proven guilty of murder by conspiracy beyond any possibility of doubt

"Under the laws of this country, men have a right to guard their property," Mr. Duty declared, after telling of the effort to operate the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal company with armed guards during the national coal strike last summer

LEGAL RIGHT.

"It was a fool-hardy thing to do in view of conditions here," he continued, "but the law gave them a perfect right to operate that mine and that is what they undertook to do"

"There has been some evidence of petty assaults on the part of the guards, the driving of berry-pickers and others off the mine property while one boy said the guards had robbed him of forty cents But it seems to me that if those guards wanted to commit highway robbery they could have got more than forty cents'

ON MINE PROPERTY

"Defense witnesses have said that a crowd of men went to the mine to get the non-union men there to quit peacefully and were fired upon by the mine guards and three union men killed What business did they have on mine property? They were there looking for trouble and armed to meet it as part of the conspiracy formed to close the mine"

TO RESERVE RIGHTS

Attorneys for the defense declined to make a statement except to reiterate the announcement yesterday of Angus Kerr, chief counsel that the defense would reserve the right to close the arguments at any time. This was taken as an indication that the defense might submit its case without argument.

At the close of the state's rebuttal yesterday, Mr. Kerr offered to submit the case without further argument or instructions but Otis Glenn, assistant attorney-general, declared that the state wished to follow the usual course with argument and instructions

Make Survey of Living Cost of Decatur Women

National Consumer's League Says Statistics Show $15.65 Minimum for Working Woman.

"What is the least a self respecting woman can live on in your town and keep well?"

This is the question the National Consumer's League is asking the employed women of the United States to answer. In doing so they are requested to fill out a questionnaire, which in Decatur, is being placed in the hands of the girls of the Industrial department of the Y. W. C. A through Miss Mae Curren, the industrial secretary.

The questionnaire is to be filled by women and girls who have no dependents and who live alone, in respect to board and rooms. In regard to clothing it may be filled by any employed girl or women. These costs are compared all down the line with the average costs in the District of Columbia Mercantile budget.

DECATUR COSTS.

When these are handed in to Miss Curren some idea in authentic figures will be known as to just what it does cost a girl who works in Decatur and maintains herself entirely, to live.

The questionnaire shows that according to the statistics gathered by the National Consumer's League, $15.65 is required each week for maintenance at the minimum rate This amount covers items of room, board, clothing and sundries, and is divided as follows:

WHAT IT COSTS.

For clothing $4 per week is required for the girl who is well enough dressed to work and attend church, and so forth.

It shows further that $3.15 per week is required for sundries, these sundries including car fare, laundry, medical and dental care, religion, insurance savings, labor organization, magazines, newspapers, vacation, amusements, social organizations, and incidentals.

How little is set aside for these things is shown by some of the items. Savings represent but seventeen cents per week; amusements, twenty cents; social organizations, five cents; labor organization, five cents; insurance, eighteen cents; religion, ten cents; dentistry and medical care, thirty-four cents; laundry, seventy-five cents and car fare, sixty cents.

BOARD AND LODGING.

Board and lodging is placed at $8.50 per week as the minimum cost, making a total of $15.65 for the bare costs of living.

Miss Mary Anderson, director of the Woman's Bureau says:

"Except in states which have laws to prevent, more than half the women who work for wages, receive less than twelve dollars per week. In states where they are unprotected most of the women wage earners work nine to ten hours a day and more. Many of them are mothers. It is not unusual for them to work at night, taking care of their children during the day. Our investigations show that nearly all of these wage earners when their day or night in a factory is over, have house work to do. We want women in all walks of life to face such facts as these."

MANY WOMEN WORKERS.

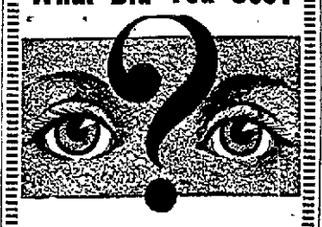

The women industrial workers of the United States have a ratio of one to every threo men, so that the conditions under which they work and how they are compelled to live, in order to make their wages cover all their expenses, is a matter of importance to the nation and to the future of the race.

As a campaign of education the Y. W. C. A. of Decatur through the industrial department is planning for a lecture to be given by Miss Rhea Gates, of the Home Bureau, in the Y. W. C. A. building, the evening of Feb. 16. The campaign is called, "The Doings of a Dollar."

TO DISCUSS SPENDING.

Miss Gates has been giving considerable attention through her work, to the purchasing power of the dollar and it is from this standpoint that she will discuss the question. She will have exhibits and samples to bring before the girls to show what is a good dollar's worth and what is a poor dollar's worth, and the difference in the value that one may obtain for a hundred cents.

The Review will give a ton of coal to the one that sends in the first correct guess as to the day the temperature will be zero or below in Decatur, as shown by government official record kept by Professor J. H. Coonradt.

The time for which guesses may be made is limited to January. Then, if there isn't any zero weather in January, the offer will be renewed for February.

HANDLED HARDWARE

Went to Store Just Before Sudden Illness.

William L. Ferguson, veteran hardware dealer and pioneer electric street railway manager, died suddenly at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the family residence, 336 East Eldorado street. He was sixty-nine years old last July. His death was caused by neuralgia of the heart.

Mr. Ferguson had apparently been in good health. He went to his hardware store, 658 East Eldorado street, at the usual time Wednesday morning. The clerks were invoicing the stock and he went back and talked with them two or three times. Finally he said he was not feeling very well and he laid down on a lounge in the store.

DIES SUDDENLY.

His son, Fred Ferguson, suggested that he had better go home and lie down as he might take cold there. Mr. Ferguson said he believed he would do that and he went home. He laid down on a couch, saying he had a severe pain in his chest. Mrs. Ferguson placed a hot water bottle on his chest and he said he felt much better. A few moments later she went to him and he was dying. She had called a physician, but Mr. Ferguson was dead when the doctor arrived.

William L. Ferguson was born in Xenia, O., July 20, 1853. The family moved to Fairfield, Iowa, when he was only three years old. He made his home there until 1873, when he came to Decatur. He and Miss Katharine Imboden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Imboden, were married here Oct. 28, 1874, and this has been their home ever since.

Mr. Ferguson and Ben Dillehunt were conducting a hardware store in the 100 block on North Water street when, with Arthur E. Kinney and D. S. Shellabarger he bought out the Frank Priest street car line, which ran from Lincoln square to the depot. The cars were drawn by mules. The new owners adopted electricity as a motive power and extended the lines, giving Decatur the first electric street railway in Illinois.

MANAGED LINES.

Arthur E. Kinney managed the line until his death. Then Mr. Ferguson sold his interest in the hardware store to his partner, Mr. Dillehunt, and took the active management of the street railway, which he continued until 1898, fourteen years.

In October, 1898, Mr. Ferguson reentered the hardware business at 658 East Eldorado street, where he remained up to the time of his death. He was one of the best known men in Macon county and had a great many friends. He was a member of the First Methodist church and of the Decatur club.

Mr. Ferguson is survived by his wife and two children, Mrs. I. C. Nicholson and Fred Ferguson, both of Decatur. He also leaves two grandchildren, Misses Helen and Catherine Ferguson, both of Hollywood, Cal., and a half-brother, Brooks Ferguson, in Denver.

The funeral will be held at the family residence Friday afternoon, but the hour has not been decided on.

FORMAL HEARING ON ZONING FEB. 2

Final Changes Made in Proposed Ordinance.

NOTICE IS PUBLISHED

After Hearing, Council Is to Take Action.

At a meeting of the zoning commission held Tuesday afternoon the final touches and amendments suggested during the informal hearings were put upon the proposed zoning ordinance and the date for the first formal hearing, as required by law, was set for Feb. 2 in the council room at 2 o'clock. The law requires that such hearings must be preceded by proper legal notice published at least fifteen days before the time set for this public hearing.

The ordinance is substantially as made up in the beginning with a few changes made to make the ordinance particularly applicable to local conditions. These conditions could not have been known as well to M. H. West city planner, who drew up the first draft of the ordinance, as to those who are more familiar with conditions and tendencies in Decatur and the local zoning commission made the changes which have been discussed in The Review following the hearings which were held some time ago but which were found not to be according to law because of the lack of formal published notice.

After the public hearing the ordinance goes to the council for further discussion and adoption or rejection by that body before it becomes effective.

MOFFETT-HICKS CASE REVERSED

Trial Must Be Heard in Circuit Court.

The case of W. C. Moffett against P. T. Hicks, county superintendent of roads, in which charges of shortages in material for bridges is made, will come to trial. In the May term of court last year the suit was heard by Judge Sentel in which a demand for the records kept by Hicks was made. Hicks produced certain records and Judge Sentel ruled that Hicks kept all the records necessary under the law and the trial therefore was not heard. The case went to the appellate court. A decision Wednesday by this court reversed the Macon county decision and remanded the case for trial.

OTHER CASES.

The Linthicum vs. Linthicum case was affirmed in part, reversed in part and remanded.

The Richardson vs. Richardson case was affirmed.

VAN PRAAG'S CASE DELAYED FEW DAYS

May File Objections to City's Answer.

The injunction suit of Commissioner Van Praag against the other members of the city council to restrain the council from using any part of the road and bridge taxes for any other purpose than the improvement of streets and alleys was not taken up in the circuit court Wednesday morning.

Attorney Lawrence C. Wheat, representing Mr. Van Praag, was not ready, and he intimated that he would file objections to the answer filed Tuesday by Corporation Counsel R. J. Monroe on behalf of the city. In that event, the case may not be tried for several days.

Mr. Van Praag claims that the council by a vote of 4 to 1 misappropriated the road and bridge fund, amounting to over $50,000, together with the penalties for violating the motor vehicle law, amounting to $2,000.

ALL DENIED.

This is all denied in the answer filed by Mr. Monroe, which declares that the money was devoted to the improvement of streets and alleys and the legitimate purposes indicated in the law, and that most of it was spent before Jan. 1, 1923, with four months of the fiscal year yet to run.

The answer also declares that Commissioner Van Praag knew all about it and that he puts his O. K. on the bills that the money was spent for.

ITEMS OF EXPENSE.

The answer lists the following items of expense for which the money was spent:

Raising of County bridge and roadway	$ 4,309.22
Street lighting	5,000.00
Streets and alleys	3,538 60
Sidewalks and crossings	573.20
Repairing paved streets	13,602 80
Cleaning paved streets	3,338.40
Cleaning catch basins, manholes and sewers for draining streets	3,000 00
Paving and improvement work on streets	7,747.37
Assessments against city for paving	3,103.77
Laying out sidewalks	383.62
Repair of William street concrete	179.50
Miscellaneous payrolls on streets	$10.40

In addition it is claimed that one-half the salary of the city engineer, amounting to $1,800, and one-half the salary of Commissioner Van Praag, amounting to $1,500, are properly chargeable to this fund, since each devotes more than half his time to such improvement work. This brings the total up to $48,881.91. Four months' expenses of the street department are yet to be met.

All these facts, the answer states, have been well known to Commissioner Van Praag, and he is not coming into court with clean hands.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Morris, 232 West William street, are making plans to attend the lecture to be given by Emile Coue, at Orchestra Hall in Chicago, Feb. 1.

Canaries Lead in Allied Pet Stock Show.

Birds of many different kinds of feathers are flocking together for the week at the second annual exhibition of the Central Illinois Allied Pet Stock association in the big show room in the 200 block West Wood street. No native of the jungle ever heard any more or greater variety of singing and chattering than one can hear right now in that show room.

The room with the cage birds, all canvased off in order to keep it warmer than the rest of the big show room, is the big attraction of the show right at this time. Canaries lead in number, the nationally-famous whistling canary of Mrs. J. J. Connors of St. Louis being a big feature. This bird, which whistles "Yankee Doodle" without a false note, is to give exhibitions of its work from 2 until 4 and 7 until 9 p. m. each day.

MANY CANARIES.

There are cages and cages of canaries, some of solid yellow colors, others are trimmed in white, and from this they range to real dark ones. Decatur also has a whistling canary in the show, the property of W. B. Lockwood. Of course it is not so well trained to do its whistling and cannot always be induced to perform, but it surprised its owner one day by whistling part of the popular tune, "Japanese Sandman," and has been whistling these lines frequently since.

Still another feature of this division of the show is the huge cage containing nineteen varieties of birds of different sizes and color and with a varied lines of music. Many of these birds are not natives of this country. They are the property of Mrs. James Pierce of Decatur. She knows all of these birds well and can give a mighty interesting talk about them.

COMPLETE SOME JUDGING.

Judging of the hundreds of pigeons and bantams was completed Tuesday and the prize tickets now appear on the cages. Work of judging the rabbits was going on Wednesday.

The first cat entry was caged Wednesday morning and preparations were being made for benching the dogs. By Thursday the show will be on in full force, with many cats and dogs present to complete the various divisions of the show.

Built Up Wonderful Organization.

L. Wilbur Messer, M. A., LL. D., for thirty-five years general secretary of Chicago Y. M. C. A., has resigned and will take his place among the volunteer workers of the association. He will be 57 years old on March 1.

No successor will be appointed, but the work will be divided among the staff which Mr. Messer has built up, according to a statement issued by W. F. Hynes, president of the Y. M. C. A.

STARTED IN 1888.

Mr. Messer came to Chicago in 1888 when the Y. M. C. A. here had one building, Farwell hall, valued at $150,000, and 2,000 members. Under his leadership he has seen it grow twenty-five departments, housed in thirteen large buildings, with land and equipment valued at $6,500,000, and with a membership of 23,000.

It is estimated that 250,000 different men have belonged to the association during Mr. Messer's administration. Housed in the dormitories and the Y. M. C. A. hotel are 3,700 men.

CONTINUES ON BOARD.

"Mr. Messer has established an organization which is perhaps unequaled in this country, if not in the world," said Mr. Hynes. "He will continue on the board of managers and on the executive committee and so will continue to exert an influence for good, although he lays down the strenuous duties of general secretary."

The new cars will give the company a larger reserve for use when needed to take care of unusual crowds on big days.

G. N. LOVELL NEW TICKET AGENT

Succeeds S. A. Hess at Wabash Office.

The position as ticket agent at the Wabash ticket office in Decatur has been assigned to George N. Lovell, present agent at Taylorville This is the place which was held for years by S. A. Hess, who resigned last November to take a banking position.

Since his leaving, the office has been in charge of Ticket Clerk E. H. Shimer, also a veteran of that office and a man highly qualified for the position. Mr. Lovell is also a veteran in Wabash service and has been at Taylorville for the last eight years. Just when he will be checked in by the auditors is not certain and it may not be before the end of the month when the regular monthly check is made.

While the present temporary incumbent had been urged for the position by scores of letters written by local business firms and individuals and organizations, Wabash officials say they could not do otherwise than name a man from the ranks of the telegraphers and ticket agents as the position as ticket agent at Decatur is covered by and included in the schedule and agreement with the telegraphers.

Close Shops.

The C. P. and St. L. railroad closed its largest shops, located at Jacksonville, Tuesday and reduced the forces at the Springfield shops from 100 men, down to fifty. Only five men have been retained at Jacksonville. The cut was made to get inside of the income as the road has been losing money for months and its fate now rests in the hands of the Interstate Commerce commission.

The C. B. and Q. has announced plans for the expenditure of close to $300,000 this year in enlarging its shops at Beardstown.

Railroad Notes.

The clerical positions as accountant in the office of General Foreman E. E. Buttz of the Wabash car department and as requisition clerk in the division engineer's office are both open for bids up to Jan. 20. The position as desk clerk at the Woodford street yard office has been assigned to Fred Dolson.

R. J. Thiell, local agent for the C. I. and W. railroad had expected to go to Springfield Wednesday morning to attend the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Casper Thiell. However he was unable to go as he was called upon to fill three positions in his own office Wednesday, due to the illness of his chief clerk, James Egan, and the first trick operator, Levi Landgrebe.

Wabash Engineers Koeppe and Welsh are laying off and Fireman Hoag, Heuser and Imel are also laing off. Fireman J. R. Adams and Schuermann are both marked off sick, the former due to having some dental work done.

The two positions of yard engine pilots recently created in the local Wabash yards have been assigned to the switch tenders. When first put up for bids, they were open to the switchmen, and being a rather choice job, two switch foremen bid them in and received switch foreman pay for the work. The job now being assigned only to switch tenders will save the company several dollars a day in pay.

Wabash engines Nos. 712 and 882 are lined up to move to the Davenport Locomotive shops for general overhauling.

The extra freight pool turn which was to have been assigned Wednesday to the 5th district, was not put on as it was said the crews already on did not make their mileage in December.

A total of fifty-nine trains was moved on the Decatur division of the Wabash Tuesday, handling 2247 loads and 732 empties.

CITY CLUB HEARS WILLIAM A. BONE

That America is suffering from a general tendency of "stepping on gas" and that the nation must make itself ready to get back to a more simple basis if it is to stand, was the basis of the rapid-fire talk which William A. Bone, of Peoria, made before members of the City club at the Orlando hotel Wednesday noon.

Mr. Bone insisted that this nation should face three tasks and face them at once—Americanization of America, adjustment of capital and labor and a decisive attempt toward world peace.

In his talk Mr. Bone used many humorous stories with which to drive home his points.

Endorsement of the program for street improvements as recommended to the city council by the Decatur Motor club was voted by the City club after J. D. Johnson, chairman of the committee which drew up the program, had told the club what those improvements included.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by Rafael Sabatini

© RAFAEL SABATINI
ARRGT. NEA SERVICE INC.

A boat that had approached unnoticed from the shore came scraping and bumping against the great red hull of the Arabella, and a raucous voice sent up a hailing shout. From the ship's belfry two silvery notes rang clear and sharp, and a moment or two later the bo'sun's whistle shrilled a long wail.

The sounds disturbed Captain Blood from his disgruntled musings.

"A note for you from the Deputy-Governor," said the master shortly, as he proffered a folded sheet.

Blood broke the seal, and read. Pitt, [illegible] clad in shirt and breeches, leaned against the rail the while and watched him, unmistakable concern imprinted on his fair, frank countenance.

"It is a very peremptory summons," said Blood, and passed the note to his friend.

The young master's gray eyes skimmed it. Thoughtfully he stroked his golden beard.

"You'll not go?" he said, between question and assertion.

"Why not? Haven't I been a daily visitor at the fort [illegible]?"

"But it'll be about the Old Wolf that he wants to see you. It gives him a grievance at last."

"Why did you let Wolverstone and the others go?" cried Jeremy, with a touch of bitterness. "You should have seen the danger."

"How could I in honesty have prevented them? It was in the bargain." And as Pitt did not answer him: "Ye see," he said, and shrugged. "I'll be getting my hat and cane and sword and go ashore in the cockboat."

Blood stepped down into the waiting boat. He knew that in going ashore that morning he carried his life in his hand. Because of this, it may have been that when he stepped on to the [illegible] mole he gave order that the boat should stay for him at that end.

Walking leisurely, he skirted the embattled wall, and passed through the great gates into the courtyard.

On his right stretched a spacious garden, beyond which rose the white house that was the residence of the Deputy Governor. In that garden's main avenue he had caught sight of Miss Bishop alone. He crossed the courtyard with suddenly lengthened stride.

"Good morning to ye, ma'am," was his greeting as he overtook her. "I am provided," she informed him. "[illegible] you will forgive me if I do not stay."

"[illegible] until I came," he protested, and if his [illegible] smiled, his blue eyes were oddly hard.

"Since you perceive it, sir, I wonder that you trouble to be so insistent."

"Faith, you explain yourself after a fashion," said he. "But since it was more or less in your service that I donned the King's coat, you should suffer it to cover the thief and pirate.

"I'll not be detaining you any longer, ma'am. After all, the cursed thing I did for nothing can be undone. Ye'll remember that it was your hardness drove me."

She moved to depart then checked, and faced him again.

"You take that tone! You dare to take that tone!" she cried. "Do you dare to upbraid me because I will not take your hands, when I know you for a murderer and worse?"

He stared at her open-mouthed.

"A murderer—I?" he said at last.

"Did you not murder Levasseur?"

"Levasseur? So they've told you about that!" He smiled a little.

"Do you deny it?"

"I killed him, it is true. I can remember killing another man in circumstances that were very similar. That was in Bridgetown on the night of the Spanish raid. Mary Traill would tell you of it. She was present."

He clapped his hat on his head with a certain abrupt fierceness, and strode angrily away, before she could answer or even grasp the full significance of what he had said.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Hostages.

PETER BLOOD stood in the pillared portico of Government House, with unseeing eyes that were laden with pain and anger.

He was aroused by the return of the negro who had gone to announce him, and following now this slave, he made his way through the house to the wide piazza behind it, in whose shade Colonel Bishop and my Lord Julian Wade took what little air there was.

"So ye've come," the Deputy-Governor hailed him, and followed the greeting by a series of grunts of vague but apparently ill-humored import.

With scowling brow and in self-sufficient tones, Colonel Bishop delivered himself.

"I have sent for you, Captain Blood, because of certain news that has just reached me. I am informed that yesterday evening a frigate left the harbor having on board your associate Wolverstone and a hundred men of the hundred and fifty that were serving under you. His lordship and I shall be glad to have your explanation of how you came to permit that departure."

"Permit?" quoth Blood. "I ordered it."

Bishop's great face seemed to swell and its high color to deepen. He swung to Lord Julian.

"You hear that, my lord? Deliberately he has let Wolverstone loose upon the seas again— Wolverstone, the worst of all that gang of pirates after himself. Why, this thing is treason! It's a matter for a court-martial."

"Will you cease your blather of mutiny and treason and courts-martial?" Blood put on his hat, and sat down unbidden. "I have sent Wolverstone to inform Hagthorpe and the rest of my lads that they've one clear month in which to follow my example, quit piracy and get back to their boucans or their logwood, or else sail out of the Caribbean Sea. That's what I've done."

"But the men?" his lordship interposed in his level, cultured voice. "This hundred men that Wolverstone has taken with him?"

"They are those of my crew who have no taste for King Jame's service, and have preferred to seek work of other kinds. It was in our compact, my lord, that there should be no constraining of my men.

"I will remind you that the object in view was to rid the Caribbean of buccaneers. Now, I've taken the most effective way of accomplishing that object. The knowledge that I've entered the King's service should in itself go far toward disbanding the fleet of which I was until lately a leader."

"DON'T STIR FROM WHERE YOU ARE, MY LORD, OR THERE MAY BE AN ACCIDENT."

Lord Julian forestalled a fresh outburst on the part of Bishop.

"It is possible," he said, "that my Lord Sunderland will be satisfied, provided that the solution is such as you promise."

But Bishop's fury had by now reached a stage in which it was not to be restrained.

"This is a matter in which your lordship must allow me to be the better judge," he roared. "And, anyhow, I'll take the risk of acting on my own responsibility."

Lord Julian abandoned the struggle. He smiled wearily, shrugged, and waved a hand in implied resignation. The Deputy-Governor stormed on.

"Since my lord here has given you a commission, I can't regularly deal with you out of hand for piracy as you deserve. But you shall answer before a court-martial for your action in the matter of Wolverstone, and take the consequences."

"I see," said Blood. "Now we come to it. And it's yourself as Deputy-Governor will preside over that same court-martial. So that ye can wipe off old scores by hanging me, it's little ye care how ye do it!"

"Before you go," said Bishop, "and to save you from an idle rashness, I'll tell you that the Harbor-Master and the Commandant have their orders. You don't leave Port Royal, my fine gallows bird."

Peter Blood stiffened, and his vivid blue eyes stabbed the bloated face of his enemy. He passed his long cane into his left hand, and with his right thrust negligently into the breast of his doublet he swung to Lord Julian, who was thoughtfully frowning.

Captain Blood's right hand had re-emerged from the breast of his doublet, bringing with it a long pistol with silver mountings richly chased, which he leveled within a foot of the Deputy-Governor's head.

"Don't stir from where you are, my lord, or there may be an accident," said he.

And my lord, who had been moving to Bishop's assistance, stood instantly arrested.

Blood cast his cane from him, thus disengaging his left hand. "Be good enough to give me your arm, Colonel Bishop. Come, come, man, your arm."

Under the compulsion of that sharp tone, those resolute eyes, and that gleaming pistol, Bishop obeyed without demur. Captain Blood tucked his left arm through the Deputy-Governor's proffered right. Then he thrust his own right hand with its pistol back into the breast of his doublet.

Arm in arm they passed through the house, and down the garden.

They passed out of the gates unchallenged, and so came to the mole where the cock-boat from the Arabella was waiting. They took their places side by side in the stern sheets, and were pulled away together to the great red ship where Jeremy Pitt so anxiously awaited news.

You conceive the master's amazement to see the Deputy-Governor come toiling up the entrance ladder, with Blood following very close behind him.

Colonel Bishop collapsed on the locker under the stern ports, and spoke now for the first time.

"May I ask wha. . . what are your intentions?" he quavered.

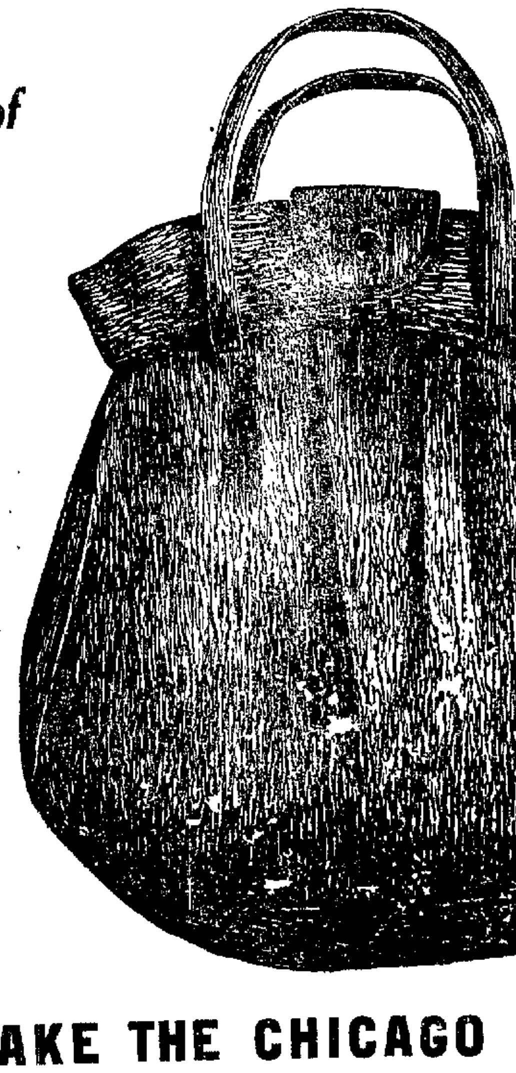

"Why, nothing sinister, Colonel. I'll be getting back to Tortuga and my buccaneers. So I've fetched ye aboard as a hostage."

"My God!" groaned the Deputy-Governor. "Ye. . . ye never mean that ye'll carry me to Tortuga!"

SHOW GOWN OF VELVETY LEATHER

Paris, Jan 17—A gown of leather so soft as to have almost the texture of velvet was seen at tea time in one of the smart hotels Tuesday. The color was a deep sand, and bands of Persian lamb dyed in a slightly darker shade went horizontally across the neck from shoulder to shoulder and vertically from a point above the waist on each side to the hem

FEATHER SLIPPERS.

London, Jan 17—Afternoon house costumes are glorified today by feather slippers. They are made from flat, glycerined feathers or from the trised ducks breasts. Sometimes they are trimmed around the edge with a frill of tiny ostrich tips or with a fringe of monkey fur.

FLANNEL SUITS.

New York, Jan. 17— Some of the suits displayed for the gaze of people going south today are of flannel in bright sports shades. These suits are frequently trimmed with the braid which is to be so popular on spring costumes, but sometimes they are oddly and attractively trimmed with leather applique

WINTER WHEAT HAS FAVORABLE ASPECT

Springfield, Jan 17.—Winter wheat reports from over the state continue favorable except some evidence of chinch bugs has been noted in scattered localities of the east section of the state Good rains occurring in the heavy winter wheat section during December and early January have improved the soil moisture situation but further precipitation would be beneficial.

Offerings of corn are moderate. Enlarged feeding demands have curtailed the local supply and others are holding for a more favorable price.

RAINS BIG HELP.

Meadows and pastures have benefited by recent rain and snowfall, and owing to the moderate weather have furnished a large amount of winter feed. The movement of hay to market is slow. The local demand is quite heavy

Health of live stock is fair to good for this time of the year. The period has been marked by a heavy increase in hog marketing. Feeder shipments have decreased. A few reports show losses of sheep due to shipping fever.

The farm activities for the past two weeks have consisted chiefly in marketing crops and live stock, feeding oporations and routine winter work. The mild winter weather has been favorable to the good progress of all farm work.

Tubular Frocks Simple but Pretty and Cheap

Jersey's a standard fabric, but until lately dressmakers have found it hard to use. It's knit on tubes, generally 54 inches around, and ravels and stretches if cut. Designs were needed for gowns that didn't require slicing up the sides for seams.

Here they are. Pleats, tucks and gathers take up the slack.

A flour sack with a hole at one end might be simpler. Nothing else could.

Yet these frocks are pretty. Cheap, too Wool jersey averages $2 a yard, and two yards make a dress

Little Fish Must Keep On Watch

Big Ones Eat Them—So Do Birds.

BY MARY SEAMAN.

Down in the bottom of a little pool a sunfish hid from sight. That is the way he spent his day, either hiding from sight or looking for something to eat. Even when he was hiding he had his mind upon something to eat if one came near him. He was getting to be a nice big sunfish for he was several years old. That is a good long time for a sunfish to keep away from the bigger fish who want to eat him and to be wise enough to keep away from the fishermen's hooks.

Life in the water is a continual adventure. The bottoms of the lakes are uneven mostly and broken just as the surrounding country is broken. These breaks form deep places and shallow places, furnishing different depths of water for the different varieties of fish to live in. Looks, coolness of the water, weeds that grow in the hills or drifts that form hiding places, are conditions that either may or may not appeal to the fish.

Successful fishermen and guides know all about these places the fish like to live in and what kind of fish are to be found in them. Fishermen are one of the chief enemies of the fish although they have to keep on the watch constantly for bigger fish who like them for meals.

There is another enemy I suppose you have never thought of. These are fish eating birds. Some of them the gulls skim over the lake just able to the water ever on the lookout for a fish. When they find one close to the surface they make a quick dive or dart and often come up with a small fish in their beak. The kingfisher sits on a branch overhead waiting for a fish to appear close enough to the surface for him to see it. He is a good fisherman and gets what he goes after. Some birds, loons, ducks and geese swim on the water and will dive even under to get their prey.

So you see a little fish has much for which to watch while he grows big.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

The Fairy Postoffice

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Then they started to work

The postoffice was in an old hickory tree. There were places to drop in letters and packages on one side and on the other side were little square boxes marked with peoples names.

If Mr Rabbit dropped a post card to Mr Cottontail to meet him by the garden why then Mr Stamps the fairy postmaster put the card in the box with Mr Cottontail's name on it. That is if he didn't make a mistake and put it in Mr Fox's box.

Nancy and Nick came to the hickory tree postoffice to assist Mr Stamps with his mail because he had so much trouble with it and needed help.

Now then said Nick 'What can we do first sir?"

Lets see said fussy little Mr Stamps Oh I know Look over this pile of old letters They are the ones that haven't been called for or the ones whose addresses I cannot read and see if you can do anything with them Did you get the magic glasses?"

Yes answered Nancy fishing in her pocket The Green Wizard was extra kind and gave us each a pair. She tied hers behind her ears and Nick hooked his on behind his ears and then they started to work.

Say! called Mr Stamps 'if you find any letters you can make out s'posin you deliver them for me will you?' My letter man Mr Long Stride has the rheumatism and won't be back for weeks 'n weeks.

Oh yes we'll do all we can to help said Nick but didn't you say that everybody came here for their mail?

Mr Stamps wagged his head 'Not everybody said he 'The forest and meadow people do mostly but how could all the fish people ever manage on dry land? Besides there are the fairies Mr Sprinkle Blow up in Bluster Dust Land couldn't come possibly as he is too busy So is Capn Pennywinkle under the sea We have to send their mail to them.

HOW TO MAKE OYSTER PATTIES

BY BERTHA E SHAPLEIGH, Of Columbia University

For the shells roll the chilled puff paste to 1 8 inch thick Cut with a round cutter About ½ inch from edge cut, partly through the paste with a smaller cutter Chill then bake twenty-five minutes at first in a very hot oven (500 F) and then reduced but not below 400 degrees When baked take out the soft inside after the small top has been removed.

40 oysters washed and parboiled for 5 to 10 minutes
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon celery salt
1½ cups oyster liquor
½ cup cream

After parboiling oysters until their edges curl strain them and reserve liquor Melt butter and add flour seasonings and oyster liquor Cook until smooth and thick stirring constantly Then add cream and oysters and bring to boiling point Season more to taste and add two slightly beaten yolks of eggs if desired but this is not necessary Fill patty shells

GOOD MANNERS

A clinging silk gown, for instance is quite appropriate

Yet the tactful hostess does not overdo matters for her guests will come simply attired and it would hardly be hospitable for her to be much more elaborately clad than they

MUFFINS.

(From University of Illinois Bulletin)

Materials—Two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one half teaspoon salt two tablespoons sugar, one egg one cup milk, two tablespoons melted shortening This makes twelve muffins

Heat muffin pans before greasing as cold pans delay baking Sift dry ingredients together This mixes them evenly Beat egg with a mixing spoon in small bowl The egg is used here for a binding substance. Beating it breaks up the yolk and white so that the egg can be more evenly distributed

Add milk to egg The egg can be more evenly mixed if it is put in with the milk

Gradually stir milk and egg into dry ingredients. If they are stirred in gradually, the mixture will not lump so easily

Beat until mixture is free from lumps This gives a finer and more even texture to the finished product

Add melted fat and beat again Melted fat can be more evenly distributed than cold fat, but care should be taken not to brown the fat in heating

Fill the cups half full of mixture and bake in moderate oven for about twenty-five minutes Filling the cups only half full gives the muffins room to rise.

If there is not enough of the mixture for all the cups, partially fill the empty ones with water. Water prevents the heat from injurying the pan

WHERE YOU GO WE GO.

A novelist from England comes over to tell us to "send all the women to Iceland for two months and then American men will begin to read books."

We wonder why he wants to send them to Iceland. It will be better to send them not further than the next county; then it will be easier to go to them after a few hours when men folks get tired of the arrangement. Or it will be easier for the women to come back, drop into the homes a little while to see that everything hasn't gone to pot.

Yes, the men will do some reading while the women are away, but it may not be particularly helpful. Everybody will supply himself with a time table to figure out a trip to the place where the women may be. And the men will be so absorbed in this style of reading they will have no time for other kinds of books.

And one is by no means sure the men are the ones to call into consultation if a big moving job is to be put on. The women may be expected to have something to say, and it is just possible they will prefer to stay home and let men do the hiking, especially as the suggestion comes from a man in the first instance. And in a thing like this the first and foremost consideration is to learn what the women prefer; what they say is the thing that will go. Some may not be willing to read a great deal when they are around, but there are spare moments in life when reading is not the only big thing.

A CONTINGENCY DEBAUCH.

There is a proposed rule before the house at Springfield that important appropriation bills shall be on the desks of members three full days before final action is taken on them. It is a rule that meets the general approval of people in the state who have looked into the matter; however, there is opposition from some members of the house.

These objectors take the position that "contingencies" which frequently arise toward the close of a session could not be taken care of under operation of this rule.

It occurs to one this ground of opposition is thin and shaky. The proportion of contingencies is no greater in the last three days of a legislative session than in any other three days of the year. Running along normally, we are without a legislature eighteen months of the twenty-four. We manage somehow to get along with the contingencies that arise in these eighteen months. Being able to do this, we should have little difficulty in facing those that arise in the last three days of the legislative session.

And perhaps we can save money by making up our minds to do this. The difficulty is that without such a rule the last three days of the session may be depended on to develop more contingencies than all the other days of the two years' period. Without a rule we have a contingency debauch in the last three days, and this is a little too expensive for our comfort.

A THREE DAYS' SUPPLY.

It is thought to be worth a few lines in the paper to let the folks know a carload of head lettuce has come to town, all in one shipment. It is remarked that not a great many years ago this would have been enough lettuce to carry us through the winter season. We don't know how long it lasts now; we trust it is not more than a few short days.

In that carload of lettuce was 1300 dozen heads Carry on with the figuring and learn this means only 15,600 heads. In the town we have between 45,000 and 50,000 people, so there is a head for each three of us If we are a little close in serving, that may be made to do for a single dinner, and we are supposed to dine once a day.

The supply will last more than a day, but this is because many will not get helped to all the lettuce they would relish. If the carload lasts three days, we may know that two in three of us are denying themselves, going without. There may be some who don't care for lettuce, while others forget to take a head home. Putting all of it together, we can't see how the carload can be made to do for more than three days.

BEWARE THE POLITE MAN.

It is always well to keep in mind it is not best to go too far with a man just because he is polite. He may be decorous and seemingly calm on the outside, and all the while he is getting ready to explode. Politeness doesn't mean there is an absence of T. N. T. inside.

In a press dispatch from Europe we read that certain industrial magnates of Germany "were deceived by the polite conciliatory methods of the French" now in the Ruhr district. The result was the magnates overplayed the poor hand they held. The Frenchman called in more troops and proceeded to the occupation of further territory.

We understand the Frenchman is always polite during all the preliminaries. However, it is not expected we shall mistake that politeness. The Frenchman can be ceremoniously suave in manner and at the same time have in him very little in the way of concession. He uses his politeness to make the engagement easier for the other fellow, and not at all to give up something to him.

And people of considerable experience have a suspicion this thing is a characteristic of politeness in all parts of the world and at all times. In politeness there need not be a particle of the saving quality of gentle virtue—and nearly always politeness is averse to carrying excess baggage.

TAKING THE SHORT WAY OUT.

After looking over the figures, property holders on North Main street reached the conclusion the easiest way out is to take up the wood blocks and put down a new asphalt top. This is the process that in the end calls for the least money, and likely it is also the most serviceable. Property owners at the meeting to consider the matter were practically of one mind in reaching this decision.

Probably it remains true there is no better pavement than wood block—that is when it is taken care of properly. It now appears this proper care is a big item with like running expense. This is more than a street like North Main feels justified in undertaking; and of course the city can't be expected to take it on as a regular burden. If the property owners don't stand the expense from year to year, they can be sure the needed care will not be given the wood block street, and then we have a pavement that becomes a handicap rather than a help.

If there is any other way out of this situation, this is the time to mention it; but there is little disposition to waste time and patience on the fellow who merely wishes to do some guessing.

WAR WITHOUT FINANCES.

A Decatur business man was in the east and while there learned from American bankers there will not be another war in Europe along about this time, for the reason the fighters can't finance a war. Present indications are it will be a long time before they can do more financing of this kind.

We wish bankers had the last word in this matter, but it isn't always that way. They can be pretty sure there will not soon be another war on the scale of the last big one, but in a pinch there can be a lot of fighting and general destruction on small finances.

One recalls the series of wars they had in the Balkan country previous to 1914. That corner of the world didn't have much money, and little credit at the bank, and yet those people did a great lot of fighting. In ancient times there was nothing in the way of modern finance, and yet those people occasionally put on wars that wiped out countries. Take a look at the buried ruins where Carthage stood, and remember that destruction was done at a time when people didn't dream there was such a thing as international financing.

THE START IS THE THING.

The United States coal commission makes report concerning some of the big difficulties in that line of mining. As has been told repeatedly in the past three or four years, the big difficulty is there are too many mines and too many miners to supply the demand of this country for coal.

The commission says there can be no satisfactory arrangement until steadier employment of mines and miners can be brought about. We can't have this while we have a force that produces more coal than we use It is not easy to see where a start is to be made.

MR. FINLEY LOOKS AHEAD.

William H. Finley, president of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, seems to be a man who is at least abreast of his job, possibly a little ahead of its demands.

He doesn't believe that good highways are going to ruin the railroads. Rather he feels that "the more means there are of traveling and of shipping, the more traveling and shipping increases."

We believe Mr. Finley is right about it, that time will vindicate him. Just now there is a transition period, but men must look beyond.

We suspected all along that with W. E. Redmon at the head of the organization he would prevail on those lawyers to take their dinner at the noon hour, which was good enough for the forefathers.

And how did Ralph Monroe get the notion that bill could possibly have been filed for political purposes when the filer confesses he "is no politician?"

Yesterday one could have almost 17,000 marks for a dollar, and we don't understand why anybody is holding off for 20,000.

Somehow we feel better when we look at the market page and learn that corn and wheat are advancing in open market prices.

If the fans will furnish the ball players, the Association of Commerce will see they are provided with a place to deliver the goods.

It seems they are working women in those coal mines in the Ruhr, and let us hope the French will know better than this.

Superintendent Richeson is telling the bankers that in bringing their business before the public it is best to begin on us when we are young.

There ought to be a chance to make some money in bottling this Illinois January weather and shipping it to California.

This city of Chillicothe in this state, captured entirely by two armed bandits, has only 1,986 population—so it wasn't fair.

The Fishing club rule is to close the place in winter time, even when winter doesn't come.

Who started with $50 after the Civil war and worked his way up until, at eighty-nine, is millionaire head of a chain of leading banks.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 17.—I knew the post-war days would be rough and I put by every cent I could rake and scrape in the army. After my discharge I worked hard, and a little of what I earned I saved. It was mighty little, but I did it every week and soon I began to see how even a little money, thriftily saved, could be turned over in business.

THE CALENDAR.

Here is a calendar to serve the year,
A page to mark each day that's new begun.
Behold the first which wears its figure one!
At dawn another morning will appear,
But will it come with sorrow or with cheer?
There is no clue for men to seize upon,
Time breeds the hour which lives and passes on
Nor stays for laughter or the glistening tear.

This day is fair, enjoy it while you may!
Tomorrow you must tear away its page,
You cannot lengthen it or bid it stay.
Its measured sands run swiftly through the gauge.
But this is sure: who wakes tomorrow morn,
Shall find a new day for his service born.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long stages of tiresome exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects

WHO FIRST FELT "LIKE A FIGHTING COCK"?

COCK-FIGHTING was born with the cocks.

But it is only 80 years ago that the first man felt "like a fighting cock!"

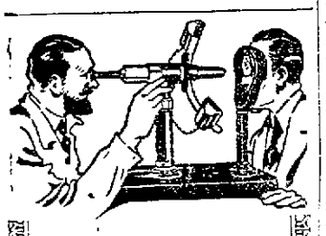

Now it has brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, all over the world—all feeling "like a fighting cock!"

It happens this way. A person half sick with bad stomach, dull and heavy headache, takes Beecham's Pills just before going to bed. Immediately the Pills begin to harmonize the digestive and eliminative organs.

Consequently, this person has a good night's sleep and arises in the morning with clear brain, bright eye, keen appetite, and full of energy for work and play.

It is now just 80 years since Beecham's Pills first began correcting disordered stomachs and stirring sluggish livers and bowels to natural activity — and feeling "like a fighting cock" is associated as inseparably with Beecham's Pills, as the pills are with good health.

WAS ALL RUN DOWN AFTER OPERATION

Avoided second operation and is now the picture of health.

"I had a very severe operation which left me in a miserable condition, badly constipated, female trouble, kidney trouble, stomach trouble, could not eat or sleep. I felt as if life was of no use to me. Several doctors told me that I would never be better until I had another operation. One year ago I commenced taking Milks Emulsion and I cannot praise it enough. I can eat and sleep like a baby and the people of this town have seen what Milks Emulsion has done for me and are now using it. It had been a God-send to me. I know it saved my life. I was nothing but a shadow of my former self when I began taking Milks Emulsion and now I look the picture of health. My parents are very thankful to you as my sickness had cost them hundreds of dollars."—Ethel Hartman, Salineville, Ohio.

A run-down body invites disease. Let Milks Emulsion build you up as it has others. It costs nothing to try.

Milks Emulsion restores healthy, natural bowel action; it is a truly corrective medicine, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, and thus build flesh and strength. Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened; it is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Truly wonderful for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Railroad Regulations Now Worse Than Former Abuses Shaw Tells Traffic Club

Ninety-nine Agencies Telling How to Run Roads—Great Equipment Decline in Last Seven Years.

Admitting that abuses had grown up in the railroad business of the country before the period of regulation set in, the pendulum has now swung far the other way and those who started in to stop admitted abuses, those who attacked the railroads, have created a body of regulatory, confiscatory, restrictive laws which have resulted in the present crippled condition of the railroads in the United States, said C. W. Shaw, superintendent of the Springfield division of the Illinois Central in his talk to about forty members of the Decatur Transportation club following a dinner at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night.

TOO MUCH REGULATION.

In his talk Mr. Shaw, who is located at Clinton said:

"We have ninety-nine agencies which exercise various degrees of control over the railroads of the United States, namely, congress, forty-eight state legislatures, the interstate commerce commission, forty-eight public service commissions, the labor board, and the many municipal regulations, all of which must be complied with in meeting the transportation demand of the public.

DESTRUCTIVE REGULATIONS.

"Before the policy of drastic and repressive-regulation was adopted there were grave abuses in the railway business. Regulation was needed to correct them, but, once regulation was begun, those responsible for it, and those whose duties were to carry them out, were not satisfied merely to correct abuses. They entered upon a policy of regulation that has rather been more injurious than good. Our building up a transportation plant capable of meeting the public need must be free of regulations that are destructive and confiscatory in their application.

TRAFFIC INCREASING.

"Traffic the last four months of 1922, in spite of car shortage, was the largest ever known. Then, we can well ask ourselves, with the business mounting higher and higher each month, how much longer can we hope to satisfy the public in our maimed condition; brought about, largely, by conditions beyond our control.

"Additional difficulties have arisen due to strikes and lockouts; such as the late coal mine and shopmen's strike, which had their effect in reducing, not only the equipment necessary, but to also place a burden on the railroads of moving a peak coal traffic in the fall-winter months, instead of spreading the coal tonnage out for movement during the entire year.

"Large numbers of cars were set aside in bad order conditon on account of the shopmen's strike, which should have received current repairs and kept into service. The largest grain crop in the history of our country was moved, regardless of our shortage, but, we must not assume that the strikes have all to do with the shortage of equipment and with their ill effects removed shortage of equipment will disappear. Let us for a moment view the general decrease in facilities during the past 15 years.

DECREASE IN EQUIPMENT.

"In the seven years ending with 1907 the number of freight cars in service on our railways increased an average of 90,000 cars a year. I call your attention to the fact that this was before our policy of effective and restrictive railway regulation began to do its work. In the next seven year period, that ending with 1914, the average increase per year in freight cars in service was only 50,000. In the seven years ending with 1921 the average increase per year in freight cars in service was only 6,000.

"In the seven years ending with 1907 the average increase per year in the number of locomotives in service was 2,500. In the seven years ended with 1914 it was only 1,500, while in the seven years ended with 1921 it was only 275.

"These statistics showing that increases in the number of locomotives and cars available for hauling freight have almost ceased are simply typical of facts which could be given regarding every phase of railroad development. And this is the real reason why producers and shippers of every class are now finding it impossible to get enough transportation. The means providing all the transportation being asked for do not exist.

LINE MILEAGE DECREASES.

"In each of the last five years the mileage on railroad lines abandoned in the United States has exceeded the mileage of new lines built, and in 1921 the mileage of new lines built and the cars and locomotives ordered were less than any year in the history of American Railroads. Only 549 miles of new lines were built in 1918 to 1921; and for five years 1917 to 1921 there were 4989 miles abandoned.

NEW EQUIPMENT.

"On the Illinois Central Railroad, there were purchased in 1922 for early delivery of 1923 139 locomotives, the delivery of which is now in progress; 125 caboose cars—2500 coal, 1500 box, 500 automobile, 1000 refrigerator, eight baggage and six baggage-horse cars. For 1923 expenditures contemplated for additions and betterments in Roadway run about $27,000,000 and new equipment about $15,000,000 or a total of approximately $42,000,000. Of these amounts approximately $1,192,660.00 will be expended on the Springfield division in building second tracks and extensions of siding and other facilities.

JOHN KEMPSHALL IS DEAD AT MAROA

Maroa, Jan. 17—John Kempshall, a resident of Maroa since 1870, died at his home here at 9:15 Wednesday morning. The funeral will be held at the Christian church at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, with burial in the Maroa cemetery.

Mr. Kempshall was born in England, Oct. 16, 1841. Ten years later he came with his parents to America, and settled in Connecticut. In 1859 he went to Knoxville, Tenn., and in 1862 joined the confederate army. Soon afterward he was taken prisoner and until 1865 was a prisoner at Camp Douglas, Chicago.

During the war his people moved to Clinton, Ill., and in 1870 he came to Clinton. On June 5, 1870 he married Miss Ruberta Ball, who with three daughters and a son survive. The children are Mrs. Aggie Kirchhoff, Minnie Kempshall, William Lee Kempshall and Mrs. Bernice Grady, all of Maroa. There also are three brothers and one sister. Mr. Kempshall was a shoemaker until his retirement a few years ago.

Barred from membership in the G. A. R. by the fact that he was a Confederate soldier during the war, Mr. Kempshall nevertheless participated in all affairs of a patriotic nature, and insisted upon carrying the flag. The flag is now floating at half mast here, in his memory.

St. Viator Defeats Millikin Five, 19-18

Local Team Comes Up From Poor Start, But Fails to Overcome Big First Half Lead.

BY FRANK WEIR.

The luck of the Irish, combined with five first class players who displayed a neat passing game, defeated Millikin on the local university floor Tuesday night in a furiously fought basketball game, St. Viator winning 19 to 18.

St. Viator was away out in front during the biggest part of the game, Millikin only closing in and making the contest nerve-wracking when time was almost up.

TERRIFIC STRAIN.

The last three minutes of play were played under a terrific strain, both on players and spectators. Millikin crept up until but three points separated the two teams, the visitors leading, 17 to 14.

St. Viator added another basket and with the time dangerously near over, Millikin got a basket and was within one point of a tie and a basket of victory. The revolver was fired however and curtains rung down on one of the hardest fought games of the year.

ST. VIATOR LEADS.

The St. Viator team got away to the lead with a free throw early in the game. Millikin came back with one lone point to tie the count and the teams battled on even terms for some few minutes. St. Viator then forged into the lead and the battle became one of close guarding.

The visitors were finding Millikin's defense puzzling and had to resort to long shots which did not come near the hoop. Millikin on the other hand was displaying some poor passing and lost the ball time after time when possession meant shots at the basket and possible points.

LOW SCORING.

The closeness of the game can be realized when, after eleven minutes of play the score stood only 4 to 3 in St. Viator's favor.

The remainder of the half was fought on the same ground, although L. Winterhalter got loose for two baskets and four free throws to pile up fourteen points at half time. Millikin's total was six.

The second half started with Millikin taking the offensive and rushing the visitors off their feet. Curl got loose with a basket, added two free throws, while Arrington brought the crowd to its feet with a long shot from mid-floor.

With the time drawing rapidly to a close, Millikin fans were in a continuous uproar. Bowman and Curl each got a basket and Curl added a free throw.

SWEET PULLS A MERKLE.

GOOD GUARDING.

The work of Barrett and J. Winterhalter did much to defeat Millikin, as their guarding limited the Blue and White to a low number of shots and subsequent baskets.

MAJOR HURLERS TO LEAVE SOON

Advance Guard Will Shove Off in a Few Weeks.

BY JOHN B. FOSTER.
(Copyright, 1923.)

New York, Jan. 17.—In less than a month from today the pitchers of several major league clubs will search out the red flannels and the rubber sweat shirt and get ready to seek a hot climate. More hurlers will be sent to do early preliminary work to get them into condition for the season to come than ever before. Owners of the major league clubs are not shutting their eyes to the fact that they have to produce something better in the pitching line than they have shown, if they are to be successful.

ALL INCLUDED.

This applies to the leaders of 1922 as well as the tail-enders for those leaders possess a lot of old pitching talent which may show signs of dry rot about next June at which time some managers may wake to the fact that they are not going anywhere except to the junk pile.

The Cleveland club did one of the smartest and most heroic things on record in a major league race in 1922 when it decided to rebuild before May was over. In that month it was decided that the Cleveland team was not going to get anywhere. Without a moment's hesitation the president and manager began to rebuild. Most clubs in similar cases try to stick it out for the remainder of the year hoping to break even on the gate receipts and rebuild in the winter.

START TO REBUILD.

Not so Cleveland. Before July 4 was more than a prospect, they began to assemble new players and by the end of the year they had something worth while to show the Cleveland fans. If they had waited they might have slid to the bottom but by reorganizing last year they figure they have a sure first division club for 1923 and if the teams now above them falter Cleveland may go up in the race.

The teams which sent their pitchers out to condition early last year seemed to have much the better of the argument when the regular season started. It is apparent that with so many old timers trying to stick through the summer, that arms must be made to respond early in the year. If the arms do not respond, one of the teams in the closely matched American league race is likely to pick up enough early games to give it a winning edge for the championship.

REDS LOOK PROMISING.

In the promised three-cornered race in the National, Cincinnati has a pitching staff which gives much promise. If Moran can start at a run-away pace he stands a good chance.

Pittsburgh looked as if that team had the pitchers in 1922 but they did not come through especially in the early games. The Giant pitchers do not seem to be as good as those of Cincinnati and Pittsburgh but it would be wiser not to wager on the collapse of the New York pitchers.

Place a large question mark after the announcement that Squire Ebbetts will sell his Brooklyn Robins. Of course he will sell 'em. But Ebbetts says he wants his price. All those with large handfuls of millions step this way please.

"IN OLD TYPE"

WITH H. V. M.

Civic pride. It's a wonderful thing and a better illustration was never given than the case of Moline and Quincy in the battle for the Three Eye league franchise.

Last fall the writer had occasion to talk baseball with several prominent Moline men while officiating football in the Plow City and there wasn't the least idea in their minds that Moline would again be in the Three Eye league.

Had Quincy boosters and Al Tearney permitted things to simply take their natural course its about a 100 to 1 shot that Moline would never have made an effort to retain a franchise.

Here comes the big item. The sport scribes about the circuit in order to keep the Hot Stove League in session kicked Moline out of the league. That di i't set very well with Moline fans.

Then came the announcement that Quincy or Springfield would get the Moline franchise and that was like putting a stick of dynamite in the center of town. It gave Curly Anderson something to write about and the Moline fans and citizens, many of them not interested in baseball weren't going to sit back and see their city kicked out of the league.

As a result they have more money than they ever had to support the game with. They have a new enthusiasm and Moline will be a better ball town as the result.

If there were any people who wanted to see Moline out of the circuit they surely went at it in the wrong way for the Plow City fans had too much civic pride to be ousted.

Personally we are pleased they are to remain in the circuit. From a matter of dollars and cents there is only one town in Illinois that could enthuse Decatur fans as the one to take Moline or Rockford's place and that is SPRINGFIELD.

Zuppke at Ames.

Ames, Iowa, Jan. 17.—Robert Zuppke, head football coach at the University of Illinois presented twenty Iowa state college football men with letters before a general convocation at which every student and faculty member of the college was present. Coach Zuppke spoke on problems which are affecting intercollegiate athletics today and urged clean cut sportsmanship. Seven letters for cross-country also were awarded.

NON-DRAFT LOOPS ARE LOSING OUT

Statistics Show Just Where Players Come From.

New York, Jan. 17—Statistics reveal that the five minor baseball leagues which are protesting the more strenuously against re-application of the draft by the two major leagues were less affected by its operation last year than all of the other small leagues and that the quintet sold fewer players into fast company than their lesser companions.

LOW AVERAGE.

In 1922 the major leagues took 288 men from all the minor leagues, 151 by purchase, 115 through the exercise of options and twenty-two by draft. Of the total, forty-two were bought and forty-nine were taken on option from the protesting five. The five leagues—American Association, International, Pacific Coast, Western and Three-I —average one player each disposed to a major league club.

LOSING DOLLARS.

Followers of the game cite these figures as indicating that the majors are finding their best material in the leagues of lower classification and that the protesting quintets are losing financially by refusing to accept the provisions of the draft.

Last year the majors signed only forty-two players who had been free agents, players from semi-professional, sand lot clubs and college nines, the American league taking twenty-two and the National the remaining twenty.

RACING NOTES

Parader won easily enough at New Orleans Monday, but there wasn't much profit in his victory for the Kansas City followers of his owner, T. J. Pendergast. The handsome chestnut son of Whisk Broom, was a 1 to 2 favorite. Parader was bred by Harry Payne Whitney and is a horse of good class, one that is likely to win often while in his present form.

A move has been made to have the Kenilworth course in Ontario, opposite Detroit, declared bankrupt. It is one of three courses located in the same neighborhood and is chiefly remembered as the scene of the match race between Man o'War and Sir Barton, a stellar attraction for which the race track paid $85,000 and then made money on the event.

One of the few turf officials to receive a monument from horsemen will be A. B. Dade, the starter who died a few days ago in New Orleans. The memorial will be erected at his burial place in Henderson, Ky., and will bear the inscription: "Erected by the breeders and horsemen of the United States and Canada."

Attendance at the Fair Grounds is not as good as was expected and two of the $5000 handicaps scheduled for the near future have been declared off. The association has a deficit facing it, something new for New Orleans, ordinarily an excellent city for a race meeting.

Robert L. Owen, a veteran racehorse running at Tia Juana, where he won Sunday, is one of the few horses owned, trained and ridden by one man, Wi Gragan. In this case the owner cannot blame the jockey and the trainer cannot blame either of the others. Cases of this kind have been extremely rare since John J. McCafferty owned a stable that he served as both trainer and rider. The horse in this case was named for United States Senator Owen of Oklahoma and bred in Nodaway County, Mo.

There are only six races on the Havana program, so when Stutts rode half of the winners Tuesday he got fully his share and made the day profitable for those who back his mounts. He won the first with Jennie C., at 5 to 1, followed this up with Salamander at 5 to 1 in the second event and landed first with Glenn at 4 to 1 in the sixth.

To Meet Greb.

Paris, Jan. 17.—Battling Siki has been matched conditionally against Harry Greb for a bout next May, according to the Journal. The match is subject to the condition that Siki previously defeat an opponent whose name will be announced soon. The newspaper says that the purse for the proposed bout will be deposited at the French consulate at Boston.

Attention John Rider.

New York, Jan. 17.—Babe Ruth underwent an operation for the removal of a small ulcer from his left forearm at St. Vincent's hospital Wednesday. He went to a hotel an hour after the operation.

Harley has received several attractive coaching offers for next season and may get into the athletic game, although he has done nothing definite along that line as yet.

HUGH JENNINGS SELECTS TEAM

Old Timer Makes Fine Club of All Stars for All Time.

BY HUGH JENNINGS.

Picking an All-Time All-Star team is a big proposition.

Baseball has produced many star players for every position. In some cases the line of discrimination is very slight.

In making my selections, I have been guided by team value. I have considered the dispositions of the players as well as playing ability.

ALL FEATURES.

While some of the experts will no doubt disagree with certain of my selections, still I feel that all things considered, my team combines every essential feature of play.

I have placed Frankie Frisch, now playing second base for the New York Giants, at third. That is his natural position. He is one of the greatest of modern players. Until Frisch arrived I would have selected Collins, but Frisch's remarkable ability makes me string along with him.

Here are, briefly, my reasons for my selections of the greatest players in the history of the game.

BRESNAHAN FOR CATCHER.

Bresnahan for catcher because he was not only a fine receiver, good hitter, clever baserunner, but had the ability to lead off in batting, which is a wonderful help for any team in the catching department.

Mathewson is my pitching selection. His combination of speed, curves and change of pace, plus almost perfect control, made him the ideal pitcher.

Sisler at first base because of his hitting, fielding and speed. Add to those three assets a fine baseball disposition.

SISLER A WONDER.

Lajoie for second base because of his careful and wonderful fielding. Lajoie's ability to catch a thrown ball and touch a runner with the same motion was uncanny.

FRISCH WONDERFUL PLAYER.

Frisch at third for his general all-round excellence. He is a wonderful athlete.

Wagner at short because of his fielding, hitting and base running. Wagner, with his loose, awkward style, was just the opposite to the graceful Lajoie, yet his fielding was just as effective.

My outfield of Cobb, Speaker and Keeler combines all the requirements for stars.

I would like to manage a ball club comprising the ability of the men I have selected. I feel that I would be very successful, and some of the experts would surely dub me the "miracle man" or the "wonder manager."

FATHER TIME, HERE IS ONE FOR YOU!

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 17 — A scrappy youngster who claims to be a .600 hitter and writes from Moweaqua, Ill., under the name of one Roy Snyder, wants to try out with the Bloomers this spring. It may be recalled by some of the veterans that he cavorted at the south side park about fifteen years ago but he is still young and spry and thinks that he can stage a comeback that would make Hans Wagner emerald with envy. His application has been referred to Bill Jackson with power to act. Roy says that he will sign a five year contract but will not be satisfied with less than $45 per month and board and lodging. His terms are somewhat heavy. If a local lumber yard can supply the board, he may be offered that, but the money and lodging is another matter and must be carefully considered before action is taken.

GOSSIP of the RING

BY FAIR PLAY.

New York, Jan. 17.—Oh well, of course, what must be—must be.

And sure as shooting it will be, unless all the dope, prognostications and sooth-sayings are wrong.

All of which is a wurrah, wurrah moan over the fact that Charley Cook is playing the card too far away from his thumb in agreeing to match his Floyd Johnson meal ticket with Tommy Gibbons.

A BAD MOVE.

True, the young Iowa giant will have to take a small reverse or two in the coming twelve months while learning a lot of things that he will have to know before he could hope to cope with Champion Jack, but it does seem too bad that this early in his career, he should be sent against perhaps the most dangerous enemy he could be called on to face outside of Dempsey himself.

HAS BIG TASK.

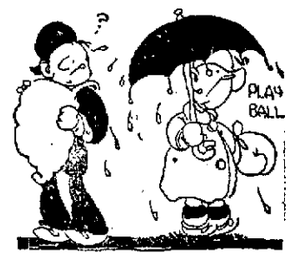

The scrap is to be held in March at Madison Square Garden. That gives Mr. Cook's protege and the hope of the fans for a new heavyweight champion, not quite two months in which to achieve a near miracle. It may be done—strange things are happening day by day in every way, but the writer believes firmly that M. Coue will have to rush immediately to Floyd's assistance, and work non-union hours to bring the latter out a winner over Gibbons.

GIBBONS THE BEST.

The writer has seen both men in their last fights—Gibbons against Billy Miske and Johnson against the wily Brennan—and on those showings Gibbons could today, provided of course, he is in any kind of shape, fight rings all around Johnson. Evidently Cook has thrown overboard his heretofore admitted, and wise policy, of making haste slowly. As stated at the opening, unless all the dope is unexpectedly overturned, his new policy of haste will end in the proverbial waste.

The March battle will be for the benefit of the milk fund. Unquestionably it will draw a record house. Incidentally, Tex Rickard, first offered Jess Willard a chance to meet either Johnson or Gibbons, but the brobdingnagian ex-champ said a thunderous "no." So there you are.

How Schaefer Forced Umpire to Call Game

"The funniest situation I ever saw staged on the ball field, happened in Cleveland back in 1906 or 1907," says Charley O'Leary, now assistant to Miller Huggins at New York.

"I was playing shortstop for Detroit at the time. When the game started it looked like rain. Cleveland made three runs in the last of the fourth. It looked as if we were beaten and of course we decided to play for rain.

"Billy Evans was doing the umpiring. In the first of the fifth it started to sprinkle and we started to do everything possible to delay the game and annoy the umpire.

"Evans refused to be annoyed, and when our side was finally retired it was raining pretty hard. That made it a ball game and we were anxious for Bill to call it.

"'Nothing doing,' he replied, 'you boys enjoyed yourself so much the last inning, it's a shame to deprive you of your fun.'

"We played the next three innings in a driving rain. There was no chance of either side making a run. Evans let on he enjoyed the rain and was deaf to our entreaties to call it.

"Finally, Herman Schaefer, now dead, borrowed a rain coat and umbrella from a fan and appeared at his position at second in that regalia.

"He was the funniest sight I ever saw on the ball field, raincoat buttoned high up, umbrella in one hand glove on the other.

"That was too much for Evans—he called it."

Bellflower Loses.

Bellflower, Ill., Jan. 17 — Empire township high won a tight basketball game from Bellflower high here tonight, 26-24. The Bellflower quintet played without the services of Captain Russell Golden, who has an infected finger but Flint, who played in his place gave an excellent account of himself. Jayne and Crawford also played good basketball for the home team, while Hadfield and Earley were the bright lights of the winning five.

White Gets Chance.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Charley White, light weight fighter, announced here today that he has closed a match with Benny Leonard, the champion, but as yet the date had not been selected. He also said that he has signed an agreement to meet Rocky Kansas at Madison Square Garden, New York, January 29. Kansas, White said, has not yet affixed his signature to the agreement.

COAST PRESIDENT EXPLAINS ACTION

In Rejecting Draft—Mint League Has Trouble.

San Francisco, Cal. Jan. 17.—In a telegraphed statement printed in the San Francisco Examiner Tuesday, William H. McCarthy, president of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, explained his reasons for casting the deciding vote at yesterday's league meeting in Portland, Ore., against the new form of draft proposed by the major leagues.

HIS STATEMENT.

Mr. McCarthy's statement said in part:

"The Pacific Coast League placed a fine of $500 on any club which accepts a player after this date with the draft privilege attached to contract. It makes the player ineligible to play in this league and forfeits all games in which the player participates.

"It wiped out all previous player limits.

"True, it became necessary for me to exercise the right to vote as a director when I learned that four directors of this league, with no consideration of the right or wrong of the issue, with no other idea than to discredit me, personally, instructing newspaper men to write the story of my repudiation hours in advance—then in justice to the loyal four directors who supported me in justice to the public who want progressive baseball, I cast the deciding vote."

NOT UP TO LANDIS.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—The dropping of the Port Huron, Mich., club following the reorganization of the Michigan-Ontario Baseball League, and the taking over of its franchise by the league, is a matter which should be handled by the national board of arbitration of minor leagues, Commissioner Landis declared Tuesday night when the case was brought to his attention by Louis Bergman, president of the Port Huron club.

"I have no jurisdiction in the matter," the commissioner said.

Mr. Bergman appealed to the commissioner, he said, after he had failed to receive a satisfactory ruling from either Secretary Farrell or President M. H. Sexton, of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

FOR THE GAME'S SAKE

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

BY LAWRENCE PERRY.

Another rebellion in the south. It is against the United States Golf association however, and the fighting is being done by the army of northern golfers who since December have been trickling into the southland and will continue to trickle until the late winter will see some forty thousand golfing visitors.

NORTHERNER'S STRONG.

The story is that despite the ukase of the executive committee of the United States Golf association against the steel shaft northern golfers in Dixie are going in strongly for the metal. It is of course understood that the new shaft is not barred on southern courses when tourneys are played.

But is the steel shaft capturing a vogue such as report? If so it is a matter of curiosity where these migratory northern rebels are being equipped. Sporting goods stores report a small demand and an inspection of outgoing golf kits in several great railway stations revealed nothing but wood.

PROS MUST CHANGE.

As a matter of fact, despite reports from the south to the contrary there is little likelihood that the steel shaft will share popularity with the good old hickory until the attitude of the golf professionals change. Hardly without exception the pros are committed to wood and their influence upon the vast body of amateur golfers is, of course, great.

Perhaps we shall know more about this next fall when those who have been selected by the U. S. G. A. to test the new shaft have submitted their report for final official action.

The large crowd of Decatur fans who attended the two matches at the St. Nicholas parlors know just why the Hoosier player is out in front for he handed Weston 50 to 36 and 50 to 30 defeats.

Cooler shot steady billiards in both matches and Charlie was not able to show at his best. Both players drew down much applause on shots made during the contests.

MOLINE RETAINS ITS FRANCHISE

Three-Eye Committee Fails to Take in Quincy.

Chicago, Jan. 17—The Three-I league will be retained intact for the 1923 season, it was decided Tuesday night at a meeting of the circuit committee here when Moline was allowed to hold its franchise for the coming season. Moline last season drew an attendance of less than 30,000 and for this reason the question of awarding the franchise to Quincy or some other city had been considered.

P. F. Ingelson, F. A. Giersch and Warren Giles appeared before the circuit committee representing Moline and pledged $10,000 to finance a new organization and a new team and assured the committee of an attendance of 50,000 for the 1923 season. They said the poor attendance of 1922 was due to industrial depression and that Moline industries were now working full time.

PLAN NEW TEAM.

According to the Moline representatives they plan a new manager and practically a new team. Mr. Giles who was president of the Moline Fans' association will retire next week when a new president will be chosen to head this organization of boosters.

Robert T. Gunther and Charles Allonby appeared in the interests of Quincy. The circuit committee decided that Quincy would have a difficult situation to handle if admitted because of railroad mileage to and from other cities holding franchises.

THE COMMITTEE.

John T. Cleary of Terre Haute, Jack Ryan of Peoria, Charles Goelzer of Bloomington and President Tearney composed the circuit committee. It was announced that a meeting of the league will be held in about three weeks to consider the 1923 schedule and arrange for the opening of the season.

BAIT For BUGS

By H. V. MILLARD

Emmett "Red" Ormsby who has been signed by Ban Johnson to umpire in the American League this season worked two or three weeks in the Three Eye before Tearney sent him out to the Western League. Dan O'Leary gave Ormsby and Bill Guthrie credit for being the best in that circuit when he was out there.

George Pritchard former Eureka college coach will get back in the I. I. A. C. for a few hours again Thursday when he brings his Drury College team of Springfield, Mo., to Jacksonville to meet Bill Harmon's Illinois College five. Drury plays St. Louis U in the Mound City this Wednesday afternoon.

They are happy at Bradley for A. J. Robertson has signed his contract with the Hilltop school for next year. Peoria fans were also rejoicing for the Tech mentor is just as popular with the towns people as he is with his own players and students.

Bradley is a good example of what coaching will do. Its basketball squad is made up of men who came to Bradley with very little high class coaching in prep schools but Robertson has taught them the fundamentals of the game. They will be hard to beat although there are a number of schools in the conference that boast of men who had more natural ability than the red and white athletes.

F. C. Brown former athletic director at Bradley who has been in charge of athletics for Brazil and located at Rio De Janeiro for the past three years is back in America and visiting relatives at Richmond, Indiana.

Brown for a number of years was president of the I. I. A. C. and developed the only championship basketball team Bradley ever had when they defeated Wesleyan a single point in the finals on the Millikin floor in one of the early tourneys.

Brown is a high class athletic man and will make some school a fine director and coach if he decides to return to that work.

The team that Hugh Jennings picked as his All Time major league nine would sure make a fine looking box score. Here is the way it would appear before a game although the batting order would be changed.

Catcher—Roger Bresnahan.
Pitcher—Christy Mathewson.
First base—George Sisler
Second base—Larry Lajoie.
Third base—Frankie Frisch.
Shortstop—Hans Wagner.
Outfield—Ty Cobb.
Outfield—Tris Speaker
Outfield—Willie Keeler.

One thing all critics seem to be agreed upon is the fact that Christy Mathewson is the greatest pitcher the game has ever known. John McGraw rates him as the best he has ever seen in action and the Giant boss has seen a few in his day.

The meeting of the committee on league makeup at Chicago Tuesday night at which time Moline was voted a right to retain its franchise was only a matter of form. It was a hard blow on Quincy and would be on any other city in the same position.

Harry Hagen will go to Champaign Monday to take part in the district three cushion billiard tournament which will be staged in the University town Monday and Tuesday. Hagen won the right to represent Decatur by defeating Art Metzler for the city title.

Missouri University dropped its first Missouri Valley game Tuesday night when Kansas put over a 21 to 19 triumph.

Mr. Cooler is sort of making a run away race of the Two-I billiard league and is five games ahead of his nearest rival. He is recognized as one of the best players in the Hoosier Capital but got away to a bad start owing to sickness.

Charlie Peterson should show his wares before a good crowd at the Decatur Club Thursday afternoon and evening at which times club members and their guests will watch the trick shot artists perform.

Dekalb Normal is to meet Wesleyan Wednesday night and State Normal Thursday afternoon. They were handed a 37 to 14 defeat by Augustana at Dekalb the other day so that the Evergreen City fans will have a chance to get some dope on the Swedes.

Right at this time Art Swedberg's tossers look like one of the best bets for I. I. A. C. honors. They are meeting Monmouth and Bradley this week and a good idea will be gained on their strength by those contests.

W. S. Sterry Brown, former Bloomington High swimming instructor and later at Illinois U. in the same capacity and for the past few months in charge at Washington U. at St. Louis, has left the St. Louis school to accept a position at Michigan University. The Michigan job offered better possibilities and he accepted it last week.

There is a big field for athletic coaches of all kind. The larger schools are constantly searching over the minor college field for capable football, basketball and baseball leaders. A fellow who is known to be a good coach and has the ability to handle men doesn't have to wait long for an advancement in this day of great athletic activity.

Even many of the smaller schools go out and get a fellow capable of handling a big school's athletic teams. There are more $5,000 men in the small schools today than in any time in the history of athletics. They figure—get the right kind of a coach, who can attract the prep athletes and then develop them after they arrive and they are bound to be successful. It has proved to be the case in a dozen different schools in the middle west the past few years.

SEVENTEEN PLAY IN EVERY MAJOR LEAGUE CONTEST

There were just 17 players in the two major leagues who appeared in every game their team played during the 1922 season. Of this number, seven were supplied by the National circuit and 10 by the American.

Four men in the older loop were tied for high honors, and oddly enough, three of them wore Cincinnati uniforms. This quartet included Ralph Pinelli, Jake Daubert and Dave Bancroft of the Giants. These four took part in 156 contest.

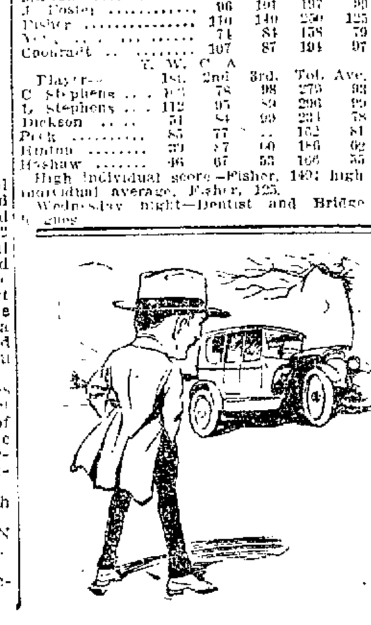

TWO PIRATES

Max Carey and "Rabbit" Maranville of Pittsburgh never missed a game all year, but the Pirates played one fray less than did their Cincinnati and New York rivals, Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals also participated in every one of the 154 games played by the Missouri club.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

In the American wheel, "Chick" Galloway of the Athletics, and Emory Rigney and Bobby Veach of the Detroit Tigers divided the leadership each getting in 155 encounters.

Eddie Collins of the White Sox, Sam Rice and Stanley Harris of Washington, Marty McManus of the Browns, Derrill Pratt of Boston, and Everett Scott and Aaron Ward of the Yankees didn't miss a game throughout the entire campaign, playing in 154 bouts.

BEALL BREAKS FROM SPRINGFIELD JAIL

Decatur Man Held in Harristown Robbery.

FOUR MAKE ESCAPE

Negro Forces Jailer Into Cell and Locks It.

Leslie I. Beall, who with Chauncey Fitness and Corda Farr, all of Decatur, were arrested for complicity in the robbery of the Harristown post office, made his escape from the Sangamon county jail early [illegible] evening according to word received in Decatur Tuesday night. Three other prisoners escaped with him. Roy Walls, colored, awaiting transportation to Leavenworth for counterfeiting government revenue stamps. J. Douglas, held for highway robbery and Gustavus Murphy held for grand larceny.

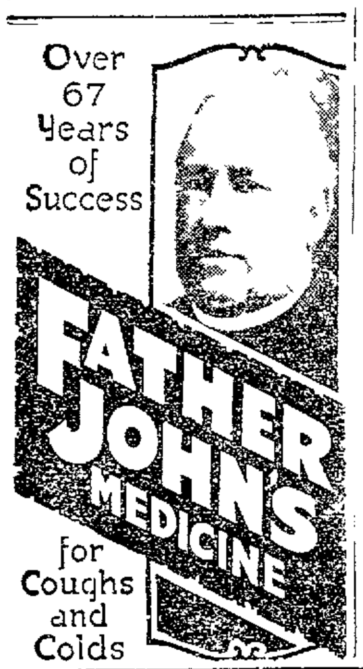

ENGINEERED BY WALLS

The jail delivery was engineered by Walls [illegible] he stabbing the knife against his [illegible] forced him into a cell and locked him in. Then Walls released [illegible] other prisoners but they refused to take advantage of the opportunity to escape. The four escaping prisoners soon had the outside door open and walked out through the office of the jail.

SAME AS BEFORE

Walls escaped the first time in much the same way when Frank Shinneman was jailer. Walls' cell mate [illegible] to Shinneman to bring him some medicine and when Shinneman came and opened the door the [illegible] and forced him into the same cell from which Walls escaped Tuesday night. The [illegible] later arrested in St. Louis [illegible]. Walls is under sentence to serve four years in the federal prison at Leavenworth and was waiting to be taken to the penitentiary.

Five shot guns and four rifles were in a glass case in the jail office but the escaping prisoners did not take any of the weapons. Chauncey Fitness and Mrs. Corda Farr were in another part of the jail and did not escape.

BEAUTIFUL VIEWS OF LAKE DECATUR

Water Is Gradually Rising, Filling Basin.

Anyone who wants to see really pretty scenery can do so right now by going out almost anywhere along the shores of Lake Decatur. The water in the lake because of the lack of current and also doubtless because of the clear clean atmosphere has an appearance of clearness rarely found in territory outside of those where the streams have rock bottoms.

Standing on the county bridge the clear water now stretches in a wide sweep eastward; the recent steady rise to more than the 604 level, four feet higher than it was in the summer, adding great areas of water as it has gradually crept up and over the small islands and lowlands along the old river channel.

The lake is reaching a point where it will take only a normal early spring or late winter flood to put it up to its real size as planned when the dam was built to the 610 level.

In the very bright sunlight of recent days the gradually growing lake has been very pretty as it sparkled and rippled in the brisk wind.

Why Corns?

Just say Blue-jay to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

BRITISH AWAITING LONDON APPROVAL

Debt Commission's Progress Again Halted.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Negotiations between the American and British debt commissions had come to a halt again today while the British awaited further instructions from their government. These were expected in time for the next meeting which was scheduled for tomorrow after adjournment of yesterday's meeting without an accord having been reached between the two commissions as to terms of settlement of Great Britain's war debt to the United States.

INTEREST DEBATE.

While the points of difference between the commissions continued to be carefully guarded today by members of both, indications were that they were confined largely to the question of interest rate. A rate of three percent was reported to have been suggested by the British commission and also approved by the British cabinet in considering the negotiations Monday.

While the British are understood to have been able to show that this was also at the average rate on government loans in normal times some members, at least, of the American commission are represented as feeling that it falls too far below the rate now paid by the American government on money borrowed and advanced to Great Britain.

RELEASE MAUPIN ON $5,000 BAIL

Danville, Jan. 17— Lee R. Maupin, manager of the Danville Co-operative Society, operating stores in Danville and Catlin, who was arrested by federal authorities on the charge of selling the dynamite used in the explosion which partly wrecked the home of John F. Zillman, 15 South Griffin street, on Nov. 25, was released late Monday afternoon on $5,000 bail, furnished by Catlin friends.

Maupin is charged with knowing that the dynamite sold by him was to be used in the Zillman explosion, and federal officers hope to pin the explosion on the guilty parties through this sale.

FORMER C. & E. I. EMPLOYE.

Maupin denies selling any dynamite for this purpose, claiming that all explosives sold at his stores were supposed to be used in mining operations. It is understood that his defense will rest on the claim that his arrest was the result of spite work.

Mr. Maupin formerly was employed at the C. & E. I. shops, but quit about a year ago.

Chicago, Jan. 17—The Illinois senate elections committee failed to sustain the state canvassing board in throwing out the seventh precinct of the first ward of Chicago, when the ballots were examined with a magnifying glass today in the recount of votes cast in the November election for State Senator Adolph Marks, of the first district, and his Democratic opponent Norman Macpherson.

The council will also make representations to Lithuania, holding her responsible for the invasion of the internationalized Memel territory and asking Lithuania to recognize the provisional authority established.

INCREASE CATTLE ON FEED 25 PCT.

Chicago, Jan. 17— There were 25 percent more cattle on feed in the 11 corn belt states on January 1, 1923, than on January 1, 1922, according to an estimate issued today by the division of crop and live stock estimates of the United States bureau of agricultural economics.

This 25 per cent increase is indicated for both groups of states — those east and those west of the Mississippi river. The estimate of December 1 showed an increase of 27 per cent over December 1, 1921— the six states west of the river, an increase of 30 per cent, and the five states east, an increase of 20 per cent.

ASK REFERENDUM ON HARD ROAD ROUTE

Location at Clinton Is in Dispute.

Clinton, Jan. 17—Preparations are under way for the purpose of holding an election Tuesday, Jan. 23, when a referendum vote will be polled to determine the sentiment of the people as to the location of the new hard road, bond issue No. 2.

Certain of the Clinton business men have been active in their efforts to detour the line through the city of Clinton via Center street and around the court house, although much opposition by others has been manifested, due to the fact that this line already is a crowded thoroughfare.

THE STATE'S LINE.

The route as selected by the state extends in a direct line north from the Hill school house south of Clinton, to the west end of the west city limits where a straight continuation intersects Main at Walnut street. It is understood that the state favors a subway at this point which would eliminate all crossings, either steam or interurban, at grade.

To follow the Center street route it would become necessary to cross the interurban line twice and the Havana and Springfield district tracks at grade, and for this reason the schools and it is believed, the majority of residents favor the Walnut street route.

MAY NOT INFLUENCE STATE.

At any rate it is pointed out that the referendum vote will have little bearing on the decision of the state in the matter, and for this reason it is the opinion of those neutral in the matter that the city council should have denied the petition of the Chamber of Commerce in asking for it.

The petition was signed by B. F. Harrison, real estate dealer; C. E. Corrington, proprietor of Clintonia theater; Harry Parkinson, proprietor of a pool hall; T. C. Wampler, shoe merchant; Julius Myers, clothing merchant; I. O. Haines, confectioner; C. F. Alsup, grocer; H. A. Campbell, produce man, and E. B. Mitchell, attorney.

Deceased had been afflicted with heart trouble for several years but had been in his usual health and his death came as a shock to his family and friends.

Mr. Harrold was born Jan. 1, 1866, the son of Jesse and Mary Harrold and had spent his entire life in Dewitt county, with the exception of five years when he farmed in Nebraska. On Jan. 28, 1891 he was married to Miss Minta Nixon and to their union six children were born, five of whom survive. They are Edith, Helen, Harold and Mildred at home and Mrs. DeLelle Moore of Clinton. Aside from the wife and children he is survived by his mother, one sister, Mrs. E. C. Carnes of Topsham, Vermont; two brothers, Frank of Decatur and Ira of Clinton.

BERKELEY POLICE EXPERT TO CHICAGO

Berkeley, Cal., Jan. 17— Dr. John Augustus Larson, the only member of the Berkeley police department credited with the collegiate degree of Doctor of Philosophy, has resigned to become assistant to Dr. Herman Adler of Chicago, head of the bureau of criminology of Illinois, it was learned here today. He is to leave soon for the east.

Dr. Larson is credited with the major share of the adaptation of the sphygmograph, a device for recording blood pressure, for use in criminal cases as a "lie detector." The adaptation of the device is founded on the theory that blood pressure changes as the emotions change.

FOREIGN NEWS HITS MARKETS

Heavy Selling in French and Belgian Government Loans.

BY STUART P. WEST.

Wall Street, New York, Jan 17—Uneasiness over the foreign news was reflected in today's markets, principally by a decline in the exchanges and by marked weakness in European government bonds.

French francs got down to almost the low point of a week ago which was only a half cent above the extreme low of November. The unfortunate German mark continued to sink into the position of the other currencies of central Europe, the worthlessness of which has long been tactly acknowledged.

HEAVY SELLING.

Of more consequence was the heavy selling movement both abroad and here in French and Belgian government loans. The French 7½'s dealt in on the dollar basis broke through their previous low record of 91. The French 8's came within a point of their bottom and the Belgian 7½'s were a point below the lowest at which they sold all last year. French municipal bonds were even weaker than the government issues.

It is very clear from all this that banking opinion did not share the optimism expressed from Paris regarding the outcome of the coercive measures in the Ruhr. There was of course, no idea that anything would come of the sensational talk of a clash between the French and the German Reichswehr.

NO UPRISING.

Neither was any serious uprising of the German people considered likely. But the financial markets continued to register their conviction which they have felt all along that the best interests of the French and Belgian reparation claims it was a mistake to extend the area of occupation and to attempt a settlement by force.

The success of Germany's "economic protest" is, to be sure, problematical. But if the German miners persist in their present attitude of refusing to work under French control, the position from the French standpoint is going to be pretty awkard.

LITTLE CONCERN.

Under the test imposed by the weakness in foreign government bonds and in the exchange the other markets showed surprisingly little concern. Had stocks been in the position they were two months ago a selling movement of considerable severity would have been likely, but inasmuch as the public has not been in Wall street to any extent during the campaign of the last month and a half there has been no opportunity to distribute stocks from the hands of pools and banking interests.

This was the technical version of the steadiness shown during the greater part of the session today. But the broader interpretation remained as it has been right along, that the bond and stock markets were holding up because they could see nothing damaging from the home trade outlook in what is now happening or in what is likely to happen abroad.

BUY UP BONDS.

Even more striking as a proof of investment sentiment than the action of today's markets was the promptness with which the $100,000,000 offerings of Anaconda Copper bonds was snapped up.

This was the largest flotation attempted by an industrial company in some time, and as such as the most important test which the investment market has had at least this year. The over-subscription demonstrated not only the abundance of funds looking for employment but it also showed that investors are not in the least disturbed by the crisis in the Ruhr.

COMMODITY NEWS.

DRY GOODS.

New Orleans, Jan. 17—There has been an extraordinary demand this week for imported linens and cotton household goods such as sheets and pillow cases. The better grades are in special request today. Factors in this demand are said to have included present crop prices, general employment, distribution of war savings stamp money and fear of advances in cotton goods.

VEGETABLE, FRUIT SUPPLY IS HEAVY

Chicago, Jan. 17 — The fruit and vegetable market this week was subjected to a shippers' barrage of apples, cabbage, potatoes, onions, lettuce and celery.

The United States bureau of markets reported today that about 10,000 more cars of fruit and vegetables were received this week than last.

Apples led the attack with about 1,400 cars arriving at market. This fruit was strongly supported by onions, potatoes, lettuce, celery and other vegetables, all showing decided increases in shipments.

MARKET UNSETTLED.

As a result of this extraordinary movement, the market fluttered considerably. Onions alone remained firm.

Onions ranged from $2, to $3.25 a hundred pounds on the various markets; apples were quoted from $4 to $5 a barrel; cabbage ranged from $20 to $30 a ton; and potatoes ranged from $1 to $1.40 a hundred pounds.

MARKS STILL FALL; NOW 18,181 FOR $1

Nature Intends Every Human Being To Enjoy Health and Happiness

Indifference and Neglect Causes of Unhappy Conditions Under Which Thousands Are Now Suffering—Remedy Offered the Afflicted in New Scientific Discovery Made by Eminent Chemist—Dunwody's Turpedine Emulsion.

Now Hailed As Nature's Great Restorative

It is evident that Nature intends every human being to have the chance of enjoying health and happiness and to live out his or her allotted span of life. Insidious disease creeps in and before you are aware of the danger you find yourself a victim in its clutches.

That feeling of lassitude, lack of energy, dull headache, failing appetite, heartburn, tired eyes, insomnia—they are the unmistakable harbingers of some functional disorder that is slowly but surely sapping the health and, if allowed to go uncorrected, will inevitably result in a physical or nervous breakdown.

Nature Always Warns of Impending Trouble

It will hardly be disputed that Nature has provided a remedy for every disease. It only remains for man to discover that remedy and apply it when the first symptoms betray the fact that something is wrong.

But not everyone is wise enough to decide what is best to be done in such a case. He may do nothing at all, which would be worse than foolish; or he may do the wrong thing, which would only the more surely invite disaster. The matter is too serious to be left to chance. Don't, for pity's sake, gamble with your health. Your proper course in this emergency should be determined by the man of Science.

A man of Science is R. G. Dunwody, the discoverer of Turpedine Emulsion, the treatment that is hailed by the sick and ailing wherever it is known as Nature's Great Restorative.

Dunwody Makes Wonderful Scientific Discovery

An honor graduate of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, he was awarded the first prize for work in analytical chemistry, afterwwrads pursuing his studies under the personal direction of Professor Samuel P. Sadtler, well-known chemical editor for years of the U. S. Dispensatory, one of the revisers of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia and a contributor to the New International Encyclopedia.

While at college he made an exhaustive study of Turpentine and its medical qualities and wrote a thesis on that subject that brought him high commendation. Afterwards he made a similar investigation of the properties of Iodine and then set himself the task of combining the two in a safe and stable compound.

Many had essayed to solve the problem but were discouraged because of the danger from explosion and combustion that attended the experiments. After profound study and endless experiments extending over several years, he at last succeeded in accomplishing the seemingly impossible and Turpedine was the result.

This product was found to possess remarkable healing powers. To render it more efficacious and useful in the treatment of disease he proceeded to combine with Turpedine several other well-known healing agents, none secret but all recognized prophylactics in the U. S. Pharmacopeia, the result being his Turpedine Emulsion.

Turpedine Emulsion a Great System Purifier

Dunwody's Turpedine Emulsion is a corrective of acid stomach. It stimulates the secretions so that digestion is carried on in a normal manner without headaches, torpidity, gas formation, palpitations or sleeplessness.

Dunwody's Turpedine Emulsion enriches the blood by increasing the number of red blood corpuscles, thus adding greatly to the power of resistance to disease. It restores lost appetite, builds up and invigorates the system and imparts new life to the weak and run-down.

As a system purifier, tissue builder and flesh producer, Dunwody's Turpedine Emulsion is especially valuable. Its tonic properties are quickly felt in a quieting of the nerves and an increase in strength.

Dunwody's Turpedine Emulsion should be taken at the first sign of coming trouble, and one cannot be too strongly urged to begin the treatment immediately on feeling bad or out of sorts.

When you begin taking Dunwody's Turpedine Emulsion you will feel an almost immediate reaction and soon every symptom of trouble will disappear. That tired, worn-out feeling will be replaced by one of renewed life and energy; despondency will give way to hopefulness; the joy of living will animate your features and you can face the world with confidence in your ability to cope with every difficulty, accomplish every task and carry on your work, whatever it may be, with satisfaction.

You can get Dunwody's Turpedine Emulsion at any druggists. Delay may cost you a lifetime of misery.

American Interests Take Steps To Market Russian Oil For World's Use

Close Large Contract For Needed Equipment

Will Exploit Baku District Along Caspian Sea In Southern Russia.

BY J. C ROYLE
(Copyright, 1923)

New York, Jan 17—The active physical move toward developing and placing on the markets of the world the oil resources of southern soviet Russia has been taken by an American corporation

According to reliable reports received today from Chattanooga, Tenn, the International Barndall Corporation has closed a large contract with the Lucey Manufacturing Company of Chattanooga for a large number of drilling rigs and oil well machinery for the exploitation of the Baku Oil fields of Russia, along the Caspian Sea

HOLDS CONCESSION

The International Barndall Corporation, according to these reports, holds a concession from the Russian federated socialist republic by which the oil lands granted to the concern in the Baku district are to be exploited on a royalty basis the royalties to be paid ... The International Barndall Corporation is a subsidiary of the Barndall Corporation ... wells and mines in fourteen states in this country and was organized for the purpose of investigating mineral resources in foreign countries

WORK FOR SOVIETS

The Lucey Manufacturing company is finishing a large contract for oil ... machinery for the Soviet government involving the expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars ... however ... placed through and financed by a British intermediary It is reported from Chattanooga that the assistance of the ... experts in putting the new machinery into operation along the shores of the Caspian sea was arranged at a meeting between Captain John J Lucey president of the manufacturing concern and Nathan ... president of the concessionaires

LONG PRODUCTIVE

The Baku fields have been productive for hundreds of years but the wells and properties in that region suffered heavily during the political disturbances since 1917 The location of the field gives it a strong position in the trade of both Europe and the Orient and its wide development has a decided bearing on the markets for American products

There is a general feeling today among woolen men that the heavy weight opening of goods for next fall by the American Woolen company next Monday and Tuesday which sets the pace for the woolen goods trade in many weaves will show price increases ranging from 1 to 20 percent Extreme advances are not expected as it is known the leading interests were successful in filling at least a part of its heavy weight raw wool requirements at fairly advantageous figures

BUSINESS ENCOURAGED

Philadelphia Jan 17—Business men in this city are greatly encouraged as to prospects for 1923 by the improvement record in many of the cities and towns in this section of Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware New enterprises are being developed in constantly increasing numbers in these districts and older concerns are enlarging capacities

The Reading Iron company has increased wages of its workers ten per cent and in tool and dye plants demand for workers is so great that women are being employed as was the case during the war

HITS COAL DEMAND

Chicago Jan 17—Mild weather has slowed down the demand for coal here but has stimulated building operations and automobile sales

All building materials are in good demand but dealers are unable to fill all orders for light buff brick because of delay in shipments from Penna and Ohio Building permits are showing an increase of about 70 per cent over January 1922 Many new projects are under way among them being a proposed $12,000,000 twenty three story hotel to replace the famous old Palmer House on which construction will begin next March

PACE SATISFACTORY

New Orleans Jan 17—Business in this city is progressing at an eminently satisfactory pace

The turnover and future orders have dispelled a feeling of conservatism on many lines of trade and there is a feeling that the south is now in line for real commercial improvement This feeling has been strengthened by reports of conditions in the agricultural regions

DRY GOODS.

New York Jan 17—The market for cotton goods continued firm and steady to high with sheetings a sorting a good part of the attention of traders Operations in print cloths were not particularly large Sateen was firm and in good demand with a fair volume of trading in evidence while lawns and voiles also came in for attention The fabrics were somewhat more active

The raw silk market was very quiet here and a similar condition was reported from Yokohama Quotations were unchanged from yesterday and XXX 13 15 lenier at $8.65 was the letter but there was no indication of a softening trend

WHEAT CLOSE RUNS HEAVY

Bulls Find Themselves at Disadvantage Over Francs' Fall.

Chicago Jan 17—Despite war news selling which appeared to be largely on foreign account turned the wheat market downward today during the early dealings Prices were also bearishly affected by profit taking on the part of traders here who on yesterday had been active in purchasing Besides some notice was taken of reports that Argentine freight rates and exchange had declined

RALLY APPEARS

The opening which varied from unchanged figures to ⅝c lower with May $1.20¾ to $1.21 and July $1.13¾ to $1.13⅞ was followed by moderate declines all around and then something of a rally

Subsequently bulls were at a disadvantage owing in some degree to assertions that fifteen points decline which had taken place in the value of francs was equal to 2½@ cents a bushel on wheat The market closed heavy ⅞ to 1⅞c net lower with May 1.19⅝ to 1.19¾ and July 1.13 ¼ to 1.13⅜

Corn and oats were relatively firm owing more or less to smallness of receipts of corn here After opening ⅛c to ¼c off May 73⅝c to 73¾c the corn market scored slight gains

Later the market eased down a little with wheat The close was unsettled ¼ to ⅜c net lower May 73¾ to 73⅞c

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c lower May 43⅝c and later recovered with corn

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market

COTTON PRICES GROW UNSETTLED

BY GEORGE D MOLTSON
(Copyright 1923)

New York Jan 17 — After ignoring European events for ten days past speculative sentiment both in financial and commodity markets has displayed an increasing degree of concern the past 24 hours Unsettling effects which appeared Tuesday causing liquidation of both cotton and securities continued at the opening today with sufficient selling pressure to carry March to $17.20 or 70 points from Monday's figure This brought May to 82 40 but disclosed a quantity of buying orders at that figure

The large volume of stocks offered at the high level discouraged buyers and forced another reaction during which investment railroad shares were offered freely U S Steel Pan-American and Studebaker offered stubborn resistance to selling pressure but Baldwin broke from 131¾ to 129¾ and losses of ½ to 2 points took place in Atlantic Coast Line, Continental Can Dupont General Electric and United Fruit Among the more prominent rails to give ground were Illinois Central Canadian Pacific Great Northern preferred Chesapeake and Ohio and Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred, all off at least a point Call money opened at four per cent

What Would a Newspaper Be Without Headlines?

HOW could you find the news you wanted, how could you tell what you cared to read and what you didn't—if the headlines weren't there to guide you?

They make it possible for everyone to enjoy the paper—in a short space of time—every day.

And the arrangement of The Review's Classified Section enables you to profit by the time and money saving opportunities of every day—in an even shorter time.

What the headlines are to the newspaper, the indexing words of all the little ads are to The Review's Classified Section. They mean service to the reader!

And what the different sections—news, sports, woman's page, the comics—are to the newspaper, the careful grouping and alphabetical arrangement of offers and wants is to the Classified columns.

Don't put down your paper till you've read these Ads.
